Yanks Win Again

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Constellation, the United States' white-hulled defender of the America's Cup, made a farce of the second race for the ancient trophy today and defeated Sovereign, the British challenger, by an unofficial 15 minutes in strong winds and choppy seas.

The Americans won the first race Tuesday in this best-of-seven series by 5 minutes, 34 seconds.

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Constellation, pushed through the choppy seas by a 21-knot breeze, built up an edge of 400 yards today in the first leg of the race against the Challenger, Sovereign, in their best-of-seven series for the America's Cup.

The sea and weather conditions were the kind the British hoped for after Tuesday's race when the white hulled United States' defender easily defeated the Sovereign in light weather.

Neither crew manipulated for position at the start today and Sovereign, on the far leeward side, actually was across the line first.

MAKES UP DEFICIT

But Constellation hardly tested in heavy weather, quickly made up the small deficit and pulled ahead following a tacking duel initiated by Sovereign.

The American defender made the first marker with a lead twice as large as she had at the same point on Tuesday.

Constellation held a lead of 3 minutes, 43 seconds at the end of the first leg but the advantage was cut to 3:22 by the end of the second leg.

Both went into the third leg, a broad reach, with spinnakers flying.

Sailing a conservative race, Constellation was still 3 minutes 22 seconds ahead as she headed into the fourth leg.

Experts said the fact that Sovereign had cut 21 seconds off her deficit after the opening beat proved that the two yachts were on a par as far as hull speed and crew teamwork was concerned but that the American defender had far better sails.

The Constellation's advantage had grown to a full mile. The wind was dropping but the American defender seemed to be adding steadily to her lead.

Observers said the Sovereign had broken the bottom battens pocket on her mainsail but added the incident hurt the British challenger's chances very little because of her great deficit.

"In a close race, the mishap might cost a length but the Constellation is a mile ahead," he explained.

RAIL OLYMPIC COURSE

As on Tuesday, when Constellation scored an easy victory, the two 12-metre yachts sailed the 24.3-mile Olympic course. The first leg is a beat and the second is run toward the north-east.

Both sloops were on a port tack and were sailing on a 1.98 degree course.

Today's crisp breeze and choppy seas were in direct contrast to Wednesday's weather, when the ocean was almost mirror calm and the wind dropped to one knot. Fearful that the race could not be completed in the allotted six hours, the officials postponed it—until today.

'DASTARDLY ACTION BY SPY'

Dahlia Lovers Grounded

LONDON (AP)—A 120-seat airliner flew to New York empty today, leaving an assortment of angry dahlia experts in London.

The British Overseas Airways Corporation's Britannia should have carried the English Midlands Dahlia Society on a charter flight to the World Dahlia Congress opening in New York Saturday.

BOAC cancelled the booking after another airline complained that the charter broke international rules.

"This was a dastardly action by an airline spy," said Philip Damp, president of the dahlia society. "Because of a dirty, low-down action the holidays for 86 people have been destroyed."

Damp explained that his society had advertised to fill va-

CAPTIVATED NOTABLES, PUBLIC

It Was Johnson's Day At Historic Ceremony

By FRANK BUTTER
Times Staff Reporter
VANCOUVER — U.S. President Lyndon B. Johnson beat the Beatles at their own game Wednesday.

His screamers came out in the rain by the thousand.

They gathered at the Peace Arch, 26 miles south of here at Blaine on the U.S. border to see the president, Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson and Premier W. A. C. Bennett sign the Columbia River project into action—and history.

It was LBJ-day all the way from Sea Island RCAF base to the border.

BEATLE-CRUSH

The president's reception matched the Beatle-crush Vancouver experienced a few weeks ago.

A huge crowd at the border chanted "we want Johnson" and teen-agers screamed just as lustily as they had for Britain's mop-top musicians.

And the president didn't disappoint them, breaking through the bonds of protocol and security to go into the crowd of 15,000 on an unscheduled handshake spree.

"Don't go," they cried.

PROCLAIMED TREATY

Minutes earlier he signed an executive order implementing the Columbia River Treaty while Mr. Pearson and Mr. Bennett signed a B.C.-Canada "accord" to formally launch the giant hydro and flood control project.

"I proclaim this treaty," the president said.

"From this day forth let it be observed in good faith by the government and people of the U.S.A."

STEADY RAIN

It rained almost all the time the president spent on his first visit to B.C. and Canada.

He got the worst of it, too—

both at the airport and the Peace Arch.

But while Prime Minister Pearson gave up on his sudden speech, Mr. Johnson, sheltered beneath his famous—though somewhat battered—stetson, trimmed only a few paragraphs from his text and ad libbed to make up for it.

The day was full of declarations of unity and friendship between the nations, symbolized at the end of the Peace Arch ceremony when the president and prime minister walked off each with an arm about the other.

Mr. Bennett, who couldn't resist a couple of plugs for his B.C. government, was still obviously captivated by the

PEARSON SAYS:

'Canadians Are Sick'

By FRANK BUTTER
Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson said today Canadians are sick.

"We are suffering from a kind of national schizophrenia," he said in a speech to 1,400 guests of the Canadian Club.

His plea was for national unity and recovery of Canada's world image.

Mr. Pearson proposed two cures: closer federal-provincial co-operation; reform of parliament.

"As a people, we appear uncertain about where we are going, how we are going and whether we are going separately or together."

"We are also worried about being absorbed en route by a big, bold neighbor. Are we too British or too American; westerners or easterners; bi-cultural, multi-cultural or non-cultural? Why not just be Canadian for a change; very proud of being citizens of no mean country—one envied by every other country on this earth?"

Mr. Pearson said Canadians should count their blessings as they survey the tough problems they have to face.

Mr. Pearson said this is the time for Canadians to show the world there is no doubt about

Nuclear Weapons Made U.K. Issue

WAR SAFEGUARD

Madman, Error Ruled Out

SEATTLE (AP) — President Johnson, arguing for continued White House control of nuclear weapons, says the United States has taken "every step man can devise to ensure that neither a madman nor a malfunction could trigger nuclear war."

This was Johnson's principal message here Wednesday at a dinner sponsored by three colleges and the Seattle Chamber of Commerce.

Johnson said control over nuclear weapons "must be centralized in the hands of the highest and most responsible officer of government—the president of the United States."

Johnson's rival for the presidency in the Nov. 3 election, Barry Goldwater, has contended that some way must be found to turn over control of battlefield nuclear weapons to the multi-nation command of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. NATO's present nuclear stockpile is under American authority.

Johnson chose to overshadow a meeting earlier Wednesday with Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson with his H-bomb speech. But today, in a statement prepared for a breakfast audience in Portland, he returned to the more pastoral subjects of water power and conservation.

ISSUES STATEMENT

Before leaving Seattle, Johnson issued a statement containing the heart of his Portland speech. In it the president said:

1. New co-operative efforts among private and public power groups in the Pacific Northwest are welcomed. He predicted these would lead into a system "which one day will stretch from the Yukon to the Rio Grande—from the Columbia to the Potomac—lighting the homes and running the factories of an entire nation."

2. "A new conservation" is needed to meet the changing forces of a growing population, technological advances and urbanization."

In telling his Seattle audience about the horrors of nuclear war—300,000,000 casualties in the first exchange, he estimated—Johnson used these arguments to bolster his contention that the nuclear trigger should be left solely in the hands of the president:

"He alone has been chosen by all the people to lead all the

RADAR 'SEES' OVER HORIZON

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—President Johnson disclosed today that the United States now has two new weapons systems able to intercept and destroy bomb-carrying satellites orbiting the earth.

At the same time, the President revealed development of new radar able to "see" over the horizon and thus provide warning of any hostile missiles attack "within seconds after they are launched."

As the meeting opened in a room across the corridor from the Commons chamber, there was joking reference to the fact only 13 of the 15 members were on hand.

Absentees John R. Matheson (L-Leeds) and David Pugh (PC—Okanagan-Boundary) were in

NORSTAD ON NATO:

'Make N-Weapons More Available'

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)—

Gen. Lauris Norstad said today that a system of control and inspection on both sides of the Iron Curtain could reduce tensions in Europe without any reductions of weapons or military manpower.

The former Supreme Allied Commander in Europe also advocated that the United States, Britain and France—the only powers that can supply nuclear weapons for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—be given authority to decide whether NATO should take nuclear action to resist an enemy.

Norstad's comments were prepared for the opening of an international symposium, a part of the three-day Mayo centennial celebration. The theme of the symposium is Man's Adaptation to his Expanding Environment.

Norstad said in his talk and in an interview that he consid-

ARMS MEET ADJOURNS IN FAILURE

GENEVA (AP)—The 17-nation disarmament conference went into a five-month recess today after failing to achieve any progress this year.

This year's negotiations began last January in a general atmosphere of optimism which gave way to one of disappointment and gloom as East and West remained deadlocked on every issue, even on questions of conference procedure.

'Control Needed'—Tories

LONDON (Reuters) — Sir Alec Douglas-Home today said any British decision to give up control over its nuclear weapon would be "irrevocable" and that Britain's place in world councils would then be taken over by France and China.

The prime minister was speaking at a press conference on his Conservative party's general election platform, which emphasizes that Britain must in the last resort have independently controlled nuclear power to deter an aggressor.

Douglas-Home said Harold Wilson's opposition Labor party had declared it would surrender control over Britain's nuclear arm.

"We want the electorate to understand that if this is done... the decision will be irrevocable... and with France and China acquiring a nuclear weapon they will take our place in the highest international councils in the world," Douglas-Home said.

CAN ACT FREELY

The prime minister said Britain now has complete freedom of action and has been able to bring its influence to bear, sometimes decisively, in international affairs. Any proposal for unilateral disarmament could only weaken Britain's position, he said.

Political sources said this indicated the determination of the government party to keep Britain's independent nuclear deterrent up on as an election issue in the Oct. 15 general election.

"The only effective defence is the certainty in the mind of any enemy that there is no prize he could ever win by our defeat which could compensate him for the destruction he would suffer in the process," the platform said.

"Conservatives do not accept

Minister Upset In Recount

SASKATOON (CP) — Former CCF attorney-general R. A. Walker has upset Industry Minister Herb Pinder in a judicial recount of votes cast in last April's general election in Hanley constituency, Judge E. N. Hughes announced today.

The recount gave Mr. Walker 3,940 votes and Mr. Pinder 3,933 votes, a difference of two.

The election night count April 22 gave Liberal candidate Pinder a six-vote margin over Mr. Walker but the lead was stretched to 30 votes in the official count.

Mr. Walker, who launched the judicial recount, will be declared elected if no appeal is launched within 48 hours.

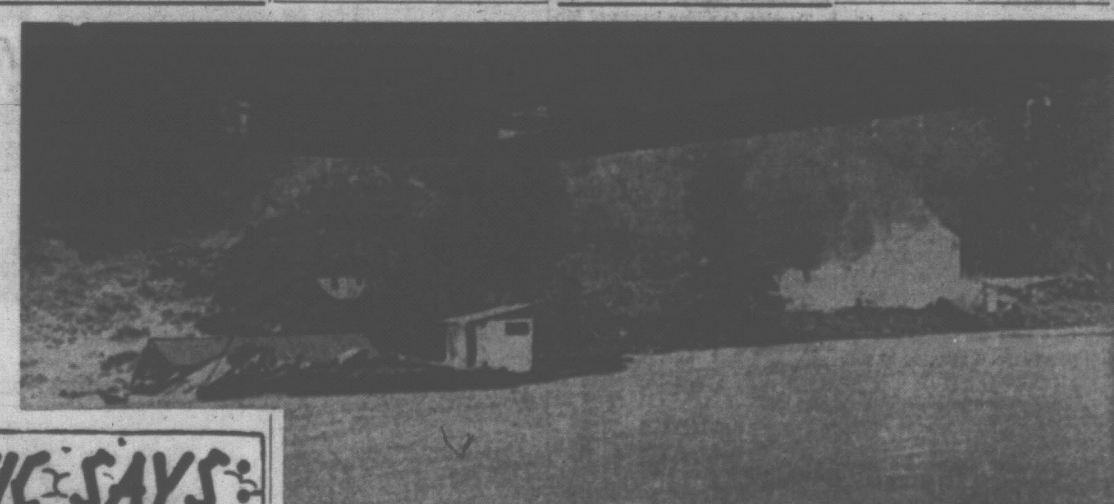

A lawyer for Mr. Pinder said he had no instructions on a possible appeal.

The Liberals won 33 seats, CCF 25 and Conservatives one in the official count for the 59-seat legislature.

PILOT LEAVES WIFE BEHIND

UELZEN (Reuters) — A 23-year-old East German escaped to West Germany today in a two-seater plane.

The pilot came from Stralsund on the Baltic coast and left his wife and baby behind after failing to persuade his wife to flee with him.

SCENE OF FATAL SLIDE

Swept into sea by mud slide, this is all that remains of Cattermole Timber Company camp, 28 miles north-east of Campbell River. The slide roared five miles down a mountain-side Wednesday, smashing 11 buildings and causing the cookhouse, OTTAWA—Meet Miss Barks, the birch girl. Linda Barks, a petite redheaded model, was given a big send-off on Parliament Hill Wednesday as she left for a three-year tour of the United States in a trailer to promote Canadian birch plywood.

Will she manage to stick it out for three years? "Oh, yes," she replied with an instant smile. "I'll be 19 this month and I'll still be young by that time."

The trailer is decorated with big red maple leaves. At various trade fairs in the U.S., Linda will pass out gold label maple leaf pins inscribed with the word Canada.

A trade department official said Linda was chosen in a contest organized by the Canadian Hardwood Plywood Association from 30 girl entries.

A 1963 graduate of Fisher Park High School here, Miss Barks was chosen for her looks and not for her name, he said.

BRACKNELL, England — Bert Melhuish says he lost most of his friends earlier this summer when he bought a $15,200 Rolls Royce.

"Fellows I have known all my life suddenly stopped calling me 'mate'," Melhuish said. "I suppose they thought I was going to get all snooty. I told them the car was on hire purchase (the instalment plan), but it made no difference."

Melhuish, a news agent, said he largely solved the problem by putting on a chauffeur's cap and offering friends a ride whenever he saw them.

"The tension eased magically," he said.

TOTNES, England — A magistrate's court ruled Tuesday that Dr. Esmond Jellicoe's peacocks are entitled to utter their mating cries in spring even if it sounds like a banshee in pain.

Jellicoe was accused by nine of his neighbors of "causing a serious nuisance." The neighbors said they could put up with the noises made by the ducks, turkeys and other feathered creatures in the doctor's private bird menagerie. But one witness said the mating cry of the peacocks was unearthly and another likened it to "someone shrieking for help."

Jellicoe argued that his peacocks had a right to call for mates during the proper season, which he said extended usually from May to June. He denied that the birds were noisy within the legal meaning of nuisance.

The panel of magistrates agreed.

NEW YORK—Chance M. Vaught, Jr., inherited an aviation fortune of $3,000,000 in 1930. He was worth $5 when he died of diabetes last April 6 at 37, according to papers filed with his will in Surrogate Court Wednesday. The will, written in 1933, divided his estate among his second wife, from whom he was estranged, three children, his mother and a brother.

WERRINGTON, England — For the first time in 46 years, Richard Duckett can hear.

Duckett, now 75, lost his hearing after a head wound in a First World War bombardment in France in 1918.

The other day he was startled to hear the ticking of a clock when he woke up.

"At 5 o'clock in the morning," he said, "I put on a pair of boots and went out and stamped on a concrete path. It was true. I could hear my footsteps."

Duckett's doctor said the old soldier's recovery was "quite inexplicable."

Duckett reported the sweetest sounds are "my wife's voice, the wind in the trees and the laughter of the neighborhood children."

Canada's unity and strength as a federal nation.

He said federal-provincial co-operation in every field is more necessary than ever before. Federal-provincial conferences at top and ministerial levels will play an increasingly important role, he pledged.

Mr. Pearson said he was concerned with the recognition of valid claims of provincial governments to resources and authority.

But in order to ensure this the federal government must be strengthened.

"We must reform our parliamentary procedures," Mr. Pearson said.

The rules of parliament should be changed to fit the times, he said. Although a parliamentary committee has been set up to do this its results have been few and its progress slow.

Mr. Pearson said the committee should move faster and do more.

Mr. Pearson said the right of a minority must be recognized, but it should not be allowed to prevent decisions by the majority.

He was evidently referring to the fight for a new national flag which he dealt with in a speech Wednesday night.

The prime minister said he knows that parliament's good reputation is under severe criticism and some of that criticism is justified.

He made brief reference to the maple leaf emblem for a Canadian flag by recalling that in time of war Canada's uniform with a maple leaf badge gave the nation a sense of confidence and conscious nationalism.

"We were Canadians and as such just a little bit better than the others. We must recapture that feeling of confidence and faith in our nation."

'WOULDN'T MAKE SENSE'

Douglas-Home, former foreign secretary who succeeded Harold Macmillan as prime minister nearly a year ago, in a personal foreword to the platform said:

"In a world as dangerous as that in which we live it can make no sense whatever for Britain unilaterally to discard her strength."

"We therefore reject the idea of giving up our nuclear arm."

"We adopt instead a balanced policy of strength and conciliation; strength to be used to stop wars before they start; conciliation to reach areas of agreement with the Soviet Union and the Communist world which will replace tension and potential conflict."

"The nuclear test-ban treaty was one such achievement. We mean to work for more until the danger of war is eliminated. The way will be rough but we will persevere. I ask you to conclude that we should retain British power and influence so that they may be used for such high purpose."

The platform attacked opposition Labor party defence policy, and declared: "Nuclear abdication is the only policy on which they can unite."

Negroes Jailed

SALISBURY (Reuters) — A Southern Rhodesian police spokesman said tonight 454 Negroes were arrested in a dawn raid Wednesday in Salisbury's Harare Negro township.

The platform pledged that a Conservative government would work for the establishment of the United Nations' present peace-keeping machinery on a more permanent basis.

nation. He alone is the constitutional commander-in-chief of the nation. On his prudence and wisdom alone can rest the decision which can alter or destroy the nation."

EQUIPPED WITH LOCKS

Johnson also made the first presidential disclosure that some U.S. nuclear weapons have been equipped, since 1961, with what he termed permissive action links.

The president described these as "electromechanical locks which must be opened by secret combination before action is possible."

This system, he said, is being extended.

Earlier Wednesday, hopping back and forth across the Canadian border with Pearson—from Montana to British Columbia, back to Washington State and then back to Canada—Johnson's big concern was the Columbia River treaty. This calls for joint Canadian-American development of the water resources of the mighty Columbia.

In today's statement, Johnson said one great result of the treaty is an agreement under which private and public power companies have agreed to work together to feed Columbia-generated power along almost the full length of the West Coast. "JUST THE BEGINNING"

Johnson viewed this as only the beginning of a transcontinental co-operative effort along similar lines.

Also, he called for "a new conservation" which he described in these terms:

"It is not just the classic conservation of protection and development, but a creative conservation of restoration and innovation."

He said the aim is to "guarantee our children a place to walk and play and commune with nature," to control industrial wastes, to harness the environment through technology, to prevent city growth from "ravishing the land" and, finally, to "conduct conservation on a global scale" and reap the full benefits of the oceans and the atmosphere.

"These," he said, "are some of the fronts of the new conservation which I will work to carry forward."

1.9 MILLION REFUGEES TO BE HOUSED

HONG KONG (AP) — The Hong Kong government plans to resettle 1,900,000 refugees from Communist China in the next 10 years, in the process becoming the landlord of almost half the colony's population.

The resettlement will cost more than $280,000,000, the government announced Thursday.

It said the plans call for new apartment blocks for refugees, new low-cost housing estates and squatter shacks as an intermediate step for people waiting to go into refugee blocks.

The government has resettled more than 700,000 refugees in the last 10 years.

Mud, Flood Hit Camps Four Presumed Dead

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP)—Three persons vanished and are presumed dead after a 1,000-foot-wide mudslide pushed most of a coastal timber-camp village northeast of here into the sea Wednesday.

Many of the 29 survivors sought safety in another camp two miles to the east which is also reported in danger from floods after three days of torrential rain.

Missing in the ruins of the Cattermole Timber Company camp on Ramsay Arm are Mrs. Jean Inkpen, 48, wife of logger Ted Inkpen, who survived; timekeeper Harold Bell, who has a wife and family in Chilliwack, and cook's assistant Norman Cooper, 49, of Vancouver.

Tom Chipenoff is missing and believed drowned after a flooding creek washed away the wharf where he was working at Toba Inlet, 15 miles away.

In hospital here are logger William Cousins, in fair condition today and improving, chest injuries; cook Humley Cooper, brother of the missing Cooper, and Ted Lowther, both in satisfactory condition.

Many survivors from the Cattermole camp walked to the Cattermole and Truethway Contractors camp two miles east rather than leave their mainland homes to come here.

The Quantan River between the two camps flooded Wednesday and washed out the connecting bridge after the survivors had crossed.

There were reports the second camp may be evacuated today. Mr. Inkpen, whose wife is presumed dead, was at the threatened camp and said he would not leave.

"This is the only place we called home," he said.

His home is buried under the mud.

An Okanagan Helicopters Limited machine from here was called and it carried eight of the 10 men from the hilltop operation to the log booming shack to start the first rescue operation.

Mr. Slipson and another man set out on foot for the camp and found Mr. Lowther trying to claw his way out of a pile of mud.

He had been struck by secondary slide as he tried to climb up the hill for help.

Capt. Stuart Spurr, a B.C. Airlines pilot who flew an emergency mission to the camp, said: "There was nothing left on the shore that was in its original position."

A President's Visit and a Treaty Signed Mark an Historic Day

BATTERY of TV cameras and news photographers, along with large crowd, marked arrival of official party at Vancouver's International Airport on jet flight from Great Falls, Mont.

SIGNING Columbia River Treaty proclamation at Peace Arch ceremony, President Johnson is watched, from the left, by U.S. Secretary of

CARVED TOTEM was presented by Premier W. A. C. Bennett to U.S. President Lyndon B. Johnson as a memento of his visit Wednesday to sign the Columbia River treaty. It was carved by Victorian Henry Hunt, a son-in-law of the late Chief Mungo Martin. Mr. Johnson gave Mr. Bennett one of the treaty pens. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Let's Stay With the Plan

THE PROPOSAL TO REZONE for half-acre lots some 400 acres of rural land lying eastward of Dean Park in North Saanich is a logical one from the standpoint of the investors who wish to get a sizable return on their money.

But the project has no logic from the standpoint of the planned, orderly development of the Saanich Peninsula; it makes no sense to persons concerned with preserving the rural character of an area unexcelled on this continent. Worse still, it would serve as a precedent for other similar subdivision programs in that part of the peninsula which would result in the early destruction of the rural character of the countryside. This is known as urban sprawl.

The population of the Greater Victoria-Saanich Peninsula region by 1976, it is estimated, will be about 200,000. Most of the increase in inhabitants will be distributed northward through the peninsula, and the eventual total will be far in excess of 200,000.

If this growth is to take place properly it must be organized. Subdivision "islands" cannot be allowed to spring up at the whim of promoters, creating utility and traffic problems, chopping up the rural areas and leading to ribbon development between settlements. Such a process will be very expensive in money and destructive of natural assets.

Planned growth, with development proceeding step by step beyond existing urban areas, is the only acceptable method. The present Dean Park proposal is in direct contrast to this concept.

In the initial report of the Capital Region Planning Board in 1959, in which the population growth was forecast and proposals made for accommodating it, these statements appeared:

"Sprawl development blocks the best use of the land by leaving a scattering of older homes on the fringe of the urban area. This makes the fringe unattractive to the more compact development which should occur with continued growth."

"Sprawl offers no advantages that cannot be provided more economically and with greater convenience and satisfaction by planned and orderly growth."

"In rural municipalities sprawl development raises the taxes, prematurely increases the value of the land, disturbs the pattern of agricultural development and makes the land continually less attractive for farming while it may never be needed for urban development."

This is what is invited by the subdivision now proposed, and the further schemes which it will encourage if the rezoning is permitted. The plan has been opposed by many of the residents of the area, as attested by the large turnout to the hearing this week. It is opposed by those whose business it is to study the growth of communities and the proper use of land. It is in opposition to the known principles of planned urban expansion and conservation of rural resources.

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell is charged with making the decision on the rezoning application. He has shown a good appreciation of the need for the orderly development of municipalities. It is to be hoped that in this crucial decision in the life of the Saanich Peninsula he will be guided only by the advice of those whose business it is to plan municipal growth for the benefit of all rather than for the advantage of a few.

Keep It International

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S MINISTER of lands and forests, Mr. Ray Williston, has a scheme that could cut a lot of red tape, save a lot of time and put a project into production which, under conventional arrangements, might become little more than a talking point or subject of study.

This seems to be the basis for his suggestion—at least implied—that British Columbia and Alaska take things into their own hands and, without benefit of the International Joint Commission, bring into being a hydro-electric plant on an international river. They would also work out arrangements for servicing supplementary industry in a relatively large area and avoid the delays customarily attendant on negotiations between Canada and the United States in such affairs.

From a business standpoint, this might be excellent. But business standpoints do not always take into consideration national interests—or the establishment of precedents which could be anything but in the national interest, if not at the location of a British Columbia-Alaska project, then in some other part of Canada or the United States.

For expediency, it appears, the minister would forego those safeguards which nations have applied to their international dealings on the basis of long, often costly, experience.

Involved in the Williston proposal is the damming of the Iskut River for power development. The Iskut flows into the Stikine just before it crosses the British Columbia border into the Alaska panhandle east of Wrangell.

The fact that it does cross the border, and that prospective hydro-electric power would be used on both sides of the dividing line, makes the scheme international, and hence not a matter for provincial jurisdiction, as enumerated in Section 92, subsection 10 of the B.N.A. Act. And on the basis of past experience, the International Joint Commission is the agency to be entrusted with the investigation and study of such deals.

We in British Columbia are not yet a nation separate from Canada. Alaska is one state in the union. Let's keep it that way, with the Canadian government looking after Canadian interests, the United States government after United States' interests. And let's not downgrade the value of a joint commission which has distinguished itself for fair dealing and sound sense over a long period.

This is an arrangement far superior to the more direct approach once favored by a former minister with American Kaiser Aluminum interests for controlled use of the Arrow Lakes water—an abortive plan not entirely forgotten in British Columbia.

The Critic

CANADA'S DEFENCE ESTABLISHMENT took a severe beating at the hands of Mr. Grant Deachman, Liberal MP for Vancouver Quadra, when he spoke this week in the mainland city and labelled the "Kremlin of Canadian bureaucracy."

Mr. Deachman, who is a member of the Commons defence committee, complained that information on the defence establishment was extremely difficult to come by even for the committee which supposedly, on behalf of Parliament and the people of Canada, is responsible for reviewing its actions. There was hardly an area of defence spending—from weapons development to training—which did not bring forth some scathing comment from the Vancouver member.

Boomerang

RECENT NEWS REPORTS indicate that motorists in most parts of Canada are going to have to pay higher premiums when they go to renew their insurance policies.

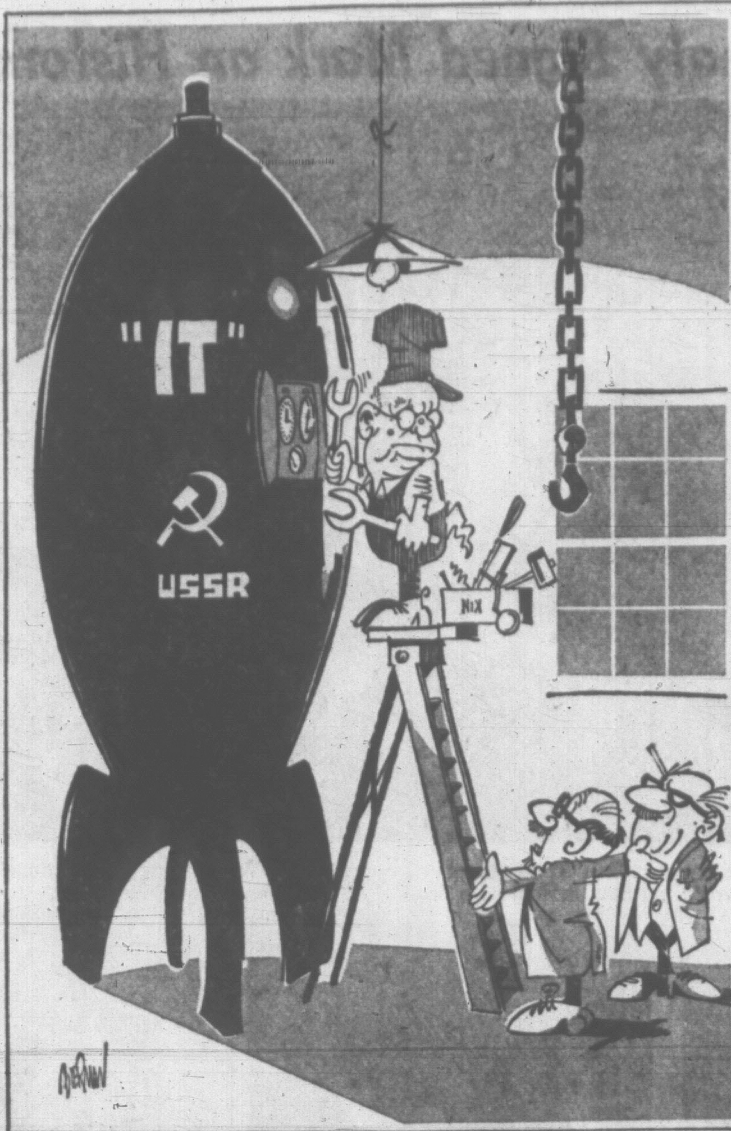

Part of the reason for this is the heavier accident rate and increased repair costs but another reason, according to Mr. J. B. Humphrey, president of All Canada Insurance Federation, is simply that people aren't as honest as they should be.

Had Mr. Deachman confined his criticisms to alleged past fumbles of the defence department—the "Diefenbunker" bomb shelter for ministers and other top officials, the Avro Arrow, the Bobcat, the all-purpose frigate—his speech would not have been notable. However, he also chose to rap sharply Forestry Minister Sauve, first chairman of the defence committee under the Pearson government, as well as Defence Minister Hellyer. Obviously a member who publicly speaks out against the ministers of his own government feels very strongly.

Canadians who are conscious of the fact that 25 cents out of every dollar spent by the federal government goes into defence will wait with interest the reaction of the government to Mr. Deachman's Vancouver outburst.

Speaking in Toronto the other day, Mr. Humphrey said that "people who would not consider stealing a dime from the corner store feel quite self-righteous about making false or exaggerated claims regarding their insurance."

The strange thing about this attitude on the part of the public is that people don't seem to realize that it affects their own insurance premiums. They seem to think that someone else is going to pay.

"... It's great, Nik ... but what've you got against the old overkill factor of 14 billion ...?"

FROM WASHINGTON

Dangerous, Often Cruel, Goldwater Dreams

SEN. Barry Goldwater has been telling the country that the President has become too powerful and that this very powerful President has been much too weak to win the cold war and stamp out crimes of violence in our city streets. The senator has based his campaign on the thesis that the powers of the presidency must be reduced and that then a smaller and weaker president can and should do away with the most troublesome problems at home and abroad.

This central contradiction is the hallmark of Goldwaterism. The senator finds it easy to believe that a smaller, shrunken, much less costly government can overcome the Communist nations jointly and severally, can command the Western Alliance and can put Latin America in order. In Barry Goldwater's mind, a cheaper government could act more strongly, a weaker government could see that the cities are successfully policed.

Do More, Pay Less

How, one must ask, can the United States run the world and yet pay less? The fact, to be sure, is that to do what Senator Goldwater wants to have done demands a much more powerful government than exists today.

Why does he think it doesn't? The plain truth, I submit, is that he is a dreamer, that when Barry Goldwater talks about public affairs he lives in a world of fantasy. He dreams that all things are possible. For it is only in the world of dreams that weaker presidents can do gigantic things, that great results can be achieved at little cost.

This unworidliness is a part of his personal attractiveness. In his world everything becomes possible when you have said that it should happen. There is no clash between the theories and the facts. The hard realities do not really exist. It was this boy who has never grown up fully who said the other day that when he was president he would install his ham radio set in the White House and would then be able to talk to a number of heads of state.

Cruel to Poor

This unworidly divorce from reality is not always charming. Many dreams can be quite cruel, and when Senator Goldwater talks about the poor he can be very cruel. He has been making much of our common worries about the increase of crime. And exploiting this worry for political purposes, he has been claiming that he, Barry Goldwater, can stop the crime which Lyndon Johnson is, so says Goldwater, promoting.

How is President Johnson promoting crime? By backing the civil rights act and by sponsoring Social Security and welfare measures. These, according to Senator Goldwater's Minneapolis speech, are causing "a breakdown in private

Speed and Death

The minister of highways, Mr. Gagliardi, has been quoted in the press several times as saying that speed is not an important, or the most important, factor in highway accidents. This has always seemed to me a peculiar thing to say. So far as I know, Mr. G. has produced no statistics to support his statement.

Recently I encountered some statistics that should interest the minister. These apply to the United States, but Canadian performance is not likely to be much different. The data was issued by the Travellers' Insurance Company.

The report states that in 1963, U.S. highway deaths totalled an all-time high of 42,790. The number of persons injured in the same period was 3,460,000. The report goes on to say: "The fast driver continued to be the greatest menace on the highway, with more than 14,000 deaths and 1,233,000 injuries directly attributable to excessive speed."

Civil Defence

Whether or not we agree with the political stand of Senator Barry Goldwater, his recent words went round the world when he spoke about the nuclear bomb. He said the devastation would hit civil defence in its weakest part—communications. Power and phone lines would disappear.

Without communications you cannot control action or issue directives on which civil defence supposedly depends.

responsibility" and in "respect for law and order."

The senator asks that "if it is entirely proper for government to take from some to give to others, then won't some men be led to believe that they can rightfully take from anyone who has more than they?"

This must be the first time in 200 years that any public man has argued that charity corrupts the characters of the poor.

Negro Issue

It is not only charity that is corrupting the poor. The search for justice is also corrupting the poor. The Goldwater theory about civil rights for Negroes is that by enacting laws about these rights the Negroes have been incited to demand these rights. According to one of his leading supporters, perhaps the most distinguished intellectual in the Goldwater camp, Prof. Milton Friedman of Chicago University, the civil rights act "has directed Negro resentment against whites."

Thus, it is not the grievances that incite the Negroes; it is the effort to redress the grievances.

The campaign has been under way only for about two weeks, and it begins to look as if the real issue to be decided is not whether this or that policy or this or that piece of legislation is sound, but whether Barry Goldwater is fit to be President in a world of reality.

FROM OTTAWA

Mr. Diefenbaker Prepares His Redoubt

MR. DIEFENBAKER'S swift and fierce reaction to the prime minister's flag comments on a weekend television show has dimmed the modest hopes of last week that an all-party committee might find a way out agreeable to both sides in the controversy.

The Conservative leader based his protest upon a two-sentence reply to a question seeking "a very quick answer, sir" at the end of the interview. Mr. Pearson's response was: "We are going to have a new flag by Christmas. It's going to be a distinctive national flag and it will be based on this historic and proud emblem of Canada, the maple leaf."

This, to Mr. Diefenbaker, was an indication of insincerity, a "serious dereliction." It meant that the Liberal members would be directed in advance by the prime minister, who was publicly predicting a maple leaf flag by Christmas.

It may very well be that Mr. Pearson was ill-advised to expose himself to such an interview at this time. The speculation that he did so because of the government's sensitivity to allegations about a new "retreat" is certainly credible. But Mr. Diefenbaker's protest was sufficiently exaggerated to suggest that he is already preparing the ground for a renewed assault when the committee, which has just been named, reports to Parliament.

Distinctive Unanimity

Of the three distinct statements in Mr. Pearson's reply, one certainly would seem to be non-controversial. All parties profess themselves in favor of a distinctive national flag. It cannot be offensive to suggest that the committee will produce what all desire.

Nor does it seem particularly inflammatory to suggest that decision will be reached by Christmas. There has already been a very long debate with 177 speeches, by Mr. Pearson's count. If any considerations of substance have been overlooked, the committee should certainly uncover them in 60 more days of research. There would still, presumably be time for reasonable debate and for decision by Mr. Pearson's target date.

The provocation, if there be any, must accordingly be found in the reference to a flag based on the maple leaf emblem. But this still leaves a wide area of choice. The prime minister said, earlier in the interview: "I think the three maple leaves with the blue border is a fine design for a Canadian flag, and if the committee agrees unanimously on some other kind of design which would discharge our commitment of a distinctive national flag, I am not going to make an issue over design if it subscribes to those principles."

There is, however, another point which Mr. Diefenbaker overlooks in his allegations. In our parliamentary system, the majority surely has some rights. The debate has been long enough to establish with certainty that there is a large majority in this Parliament for a maple leaf design.

Maple Leaf Backing

It includes almost the whole of the Liberal party, the Quebec wing of the Conservative party, the whole Creditiste party, at least three-quarters of the New Democrats and almost the whole of the Social Credit party. The fact that some want three and some a single maple leaf is irrelevant. Even among the English-speaking Conservatives some would not oppose a maple leaf as one of the elements of a national flag.

When Mr. Pearson made his forecast that the new flag would be based on the maple leaf emblem, he was simply asserting, therefore, that a symbol which draws support from all parties, and far more support than any other which has been mentioned in debate, should be accepted by the committee as a dominant element in the flag. He may have chosen an unfortunate moment to indulge in public predictions but his forecast does not appear presumptuous in view of the alignment of forces in Parliament revealed by the searching debate of recent weeks.

Source of Outrage

Mr. Diefenbaker's outraged comments suggest that any flag bearing a maple leaf design is unacceptable to him because of the prime minister's preference for that emblem. If this is the case, Conservative members of the committee are likely to have about as much latitude as the Liberals, according to Mr. Diefenbaker's version, will be granted by the prime minister.

By his allegations on Monday the Conservative leader has opened a way for a renewal of the filibuster. Whatever happens, he is now in a position to mount a new political offensive two months hence based on the charge that the committee was intended from the outset to be a rubber stamp for the government.

Now, in this nuclear age, a quarter of a century later, we look for some assurance from our provincial civil defence officials that they have the province covered with a complete and competent system at least comparable in self-operation to that which was proved in war. If we all do our duty to support defence on a voluntary basis, we could have good coverage with little cost to the taxpayer.

It is reported that a Mr. Wilcock has been appointed chief training officer but the job has a hollow sound unless the people of this province can be assured that we have a communications network capable of functioning under pressure. Austerity For India

By ASHWINI KUMARI

THE ruling Congress Party is doing its utmost to counteract the impression among ordinary people that Congress leaders are becoming enormously wealthy and wallow in luxury. As these beliefs are based on concrete symbols of affluence like bungalows, motor cars, refrigerators and the number of silk saris the missus has, Prime Minister Shastri and Mr. Kamaraj, the party chairman, have unleashed an austerity campaign in the ministerial and organizational wings of the party.

Mr. Shastri has rejected official pressure to move into a bigger house and decided against using the expensive cars (American and British) in the government garages, selecting instead an Indian-made four-seater.

Every Indian knows that Mr. Shastri is an incorruptible politician. He has always turned over the bulk of his modest earnings to the Servants of India Society, a Gandhian organization. His wife and children dress cheaply and colorlessly. The family has no bank balance.

But if the Indian Prime Minister is anxious to project an even more austere image of himself, it is because the man in the street believes that it does not take long for power to corrupt.

Mr. Shastri has told his cabinet colleagues and provincial chief ministers to cut down heavily on travelling expenses, personal entertainment and office paraphernalia.

Hitherto, certain ministers have insisted on travelling in air-conditioned railway coaches. Some even had their own "saloons." They went about accompanied by a cluster of liveried chappassis (household attendants) or peons. There have been complaints in the press that unpunctual VIPs have delayed plane and train departures.

Costs of Luxury

A group of his old village pals called on a junior minister in New Delhi. When they went back they told their friends that the minister slept in an air-conditioned bedroom, had chicken curry for lunch every day and tended a rose garden. This image cost him a good deal of popularity among his people.

Mr. Shastri has also set a fine example by refusing permission for a spectacular celebration of his 59th birthday on Oct. 2. The Indian electorate has matured over the years. Gimmicks do not produce the same results as in the old days, when the sight of a barefoot Congress leader with a torn shirt could bring tears of admiration.

The maxim that "even a lamp-post with a Congress label wins more votes than the tallest opposition candidate" more or less held good as long as Mr. Nehru was alive. Many Indians who disliked the Congress voted for it because they did not want to betray Mr. Nehru. Congress leaders are frankly afraid that, freed from the qualms of a pro-Nehru conscience, many voters might decide at the next general election on a final break with the party of national independence.

The "Gandhi cap," a symbol of prestige during the freedom struggle whose magic lingered on for so many years after the departure of the British, appears to have become an embarrassment.

"The Gandhi cap has become the target of angry demonstrators. People think that a man wearing a Gandhi cap represents the Government, whose failure to solve the food problem is resented," a local leader explained.

Prime Minister Shastri now hopes that an unspectacular, sincere practice of the Gandhian principle of plain living and high thinking will help his party to recapture some of its pre-independence magic.

...REPORTING

OTTAWA—The story that Lyndon Johnson tried to rope Mike Pearson into giving him an assist in his presidential campaign is strictly for the birds.

That's not saying there wasn't some reason for concern lest the prime minister unwittingly get involved in the U.S. election. This might have happened if he had made public appearances in the U.S. with Mr. Johnson in connection with Wednesday's Columbia treaty ceremonies.

Such appearances would have been made if Ottawa hadn't proposed changes in the program drafted in Washington for the Mike and Lyndon meeting.

But even without these changes it would not have been as I heard suggested in one quarter: like Julius Caesar leading a chained Vercingetorix in triumph through the streets of Rome!

The original plan for the treaty ceremony at the International Peace Arch on the border south of Vancouver did not contemplate the physical presence of the president and the prime minister. Instead, Ottawa and Washington were talking about closed circuit TV participation by Mr. Johnson from the White House and Mr. Pearson from 24 Sussex Street.

Then the presidential tour of the U.S. Pacific Northwest was arranged, and Mr. Johnson suggested to Mr. Pearson that it would be nice if the PM could join him at Great Falls, Montana. They would then make an aerial tour of the Columbia Basin, LBJ proposed, and proceed to Blaine, Wash., for the Peace Arch ceremonies.

The program laid out—and it's likely that underlings did the laying out rather than Mr. Johnson—would have brought Mr. Pearson before the U.S. electorate in the States of Montana and Washington in company with the electioning president. Probably nothing of an embarrassing nature would have happened. But Pearson and his advisers became concerned about what might happen. For example, the president might be met by crowds of Democratic well-wishers, and things take on a decidedly partisan tinge. Or the PM might have to walk with the president past a crowd of Republicans bearing Goldwater signs. Or John Diefenbaker might have exhumed his old canard that Mr. Pearson is "soft" on the U.S.

Since it's axiomatic that Canada must avoid involvement in U.S. elections (we have to do business with the winner, be he a Johnson or a Goldwater), Pearson ruled out any public appearances in the U.S.

If he were to join the president, it had to be at Great Falls. That was the most convenient airport. But their time on the ground before takeoff for the aerial tour was rescheduled as five minutes only.

Then, except in flight, it was arranged that Mr. Pearson would remain in Canada, venturing only as far as the Peace Arch with the president in a drive from Vancouver to the border.

Canadian officials who worked with the Americans to delete the objectionable features of the itinerary found the Americans more than willing to accommodate them. Indeed, when the possibility of Mr. Pearson being politically compromised was pointed out to officials of the White House, they were quick to question whether it wouldn't do the presidential candidate more harm than good to have Mr. Pearson in a political entourage.

And I think they're right. A Castro in chains behind the presidential Cadillac, yes. But not a Mike Pearson waving to the crowd—he'd just distract attention from the president.

AFTER the captains and kings depart, there's still some housekeeping chores to complete as these servicemen learned Wednesday. They are rolling up the red carpet at Vancouver Airport on which trod U.S. President L. B. Johnson, Prime Minister Lester Pearson and Premier W. A. C. Bennett. (Times photo.)

'Summit in Sky' On World Peace

VANCOUVER—The leaders of North America Wednesday held extensive heart-to-heart talks on keeping peace in today's strife-torn world.

At the summit in plane and car for 3½ hours were U.S. President, Lyndon Johnson and Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson.

"They discussed the whole peace-keeping field," an aide said afterwards.

Although the talks were very thorough, the two leaders were "exceptionally relaxed" the aide said.

GOT ALONG WELL

In other words—they got along well together and evidently reached some accord on world problems.

The topics under discussion included Viet Nam and Cyprus. Canada's role as a peace-maker in troubled areas was also discussed.

Officials said the Far East situation in particular was "thoroughly" covered.

The talks began aboard the Canadian Jet star which picked up the President at Great Falls, Mont. early in the morning.

They continued through the almost two hour flight which took the leaders for 45 minutes over the site of the Columbia River project in B.C.'s southern interior.

Although it was wet and cloudy over the coast, they got a good view of dam sites along the Columbia.

Also aboard the aircraft were the President's special assistant on foreign affairs, McGregor Bundy, Canadian ambassador C. S. A. Ritchie and Gordon McNab of the external affairs department.

Much of the conversation was private—as Mr. Pearson sat opposite the President.

Later the two talked again driving from the airport here to Blaine and back.

On the way the president stopped his car to talk briefly with a spectator, but also to allow three top government officials to join the mobile talks on foreign affairs.

They were Sen. William Fulbright, chairman of the U.S. foreign relations committee, Sen. George Aiken and Sen. Mike Mansfield.

The Prime Minister and the President talked again aboard U.S. Air Force One, the plane which took Mr. Johnson to Seattle after the days ceremonies.

'CANADA WENT FOR THAT LAST QUARTER'

VANCOUVER—President Johnson didn't mind a bit about handing over $253 million to Canada—it was the extra two bits that got him.

Canada's Resources Minister Arthur Laing read a telegram at the Peace Arch confirming that the U.S. had turned over the sum of $253,929,534—and 25 cents, Mr. President—in Ottawa as its payment for Columbia downstream power benefits.

Replied Mr. Johnson: "I was somewhat shocked when I heard you read that cable. To show you what Canadians really went for—they went for that last 25 cents."

'Daring' in Cause of Peace Wins Canada LBJ's Praise

Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—President Johnson Wednesday paid tribute to "Canadian daring" in the cause of world peace.

He credited Prime Minister Pearson with being a principal architect in achieving that cause.

In a speech that stressed the history of co-operation between Canada and the U.S., Mr. Johnson hailed the Columbia River treaty as a landmark.

"Difficulties that divide others have united us," he said.

The way it had been done: four pillars of partnership, respect and co-operation.

"In the founding of the United Nations, in the Middle East, in the Congo, in South East Asia, the world has responded to Canadian daring," he said.

"You have followed not the highway of empire which helped destroy Athens, but the more difficult path of peace which can save the world."

ADMITS PROBLEMS

Mr. Johnson conceded, though, that both countries have their own domestic problems.

He specifically mentioned two major U.S. issues: civil rights and the war on poverty.

"We must crush the forces of division which gnaw at the fabric of our union," he said.

Mr. Johnson was speaking at the Peace Arch ceremony marking completion of the Columbia River Treaty.

"I believe future generations will have cause for gratitude that two great democracies—Canada and the U.S.—shared the most generous continent which God has ever granted to man," he said.

ACT OF FAITH

He called his trip to Canada renewal of an act of faith—the phrase used by President Kennedy to describe his visit to Canada three years ago.

The Columbia Treaty joins common purpose to common interest in pursuit of the welfare of the people of North America, he said.

"My country is grateful for the spacious spirit with which this generous design was conceived and carried out."

GIANT LINE OF LIME MARKED SITE

NELSON (CP)—B.C. Hydro officials made sure President Johnson and Prime Minister Pearson saw the Duncan Dam site Wednesday morning.

Centre line of the dam was marked out by a giant dotted line formed of 50-foot splashes of lime across the Duncan Lake Valley from one abutment to the other. In the centre were 50-foot-high letters, "Duncan Dam". The Duncan Dam is one of three to be built under the Columbia agreement.

New Help for Diabetics

I am always happy to help any group of persons who are trying to give aid to their brethren who have the disease or their children or other near relatives have. I welcome their efforts and rejoice in their work. Hence, I am telling here of a new quarterly journal, The Diabetic, which is about to be published by friends of diabetics for all laymen who are deeply interested in this disease. I am acquainted with the group who plan the publication, and I know how dedicated they are.

Alvarez

The journal is to assist patients and their families to carry out the instructions of their physicians, and to understand better the many problems that, from time to time are likely to face them. The problems of both young and old diabetics will be discussed, and newly devised treatments, as they come along, will be described. Lay people who know well the daily problems of living with diabetes will describe these problems, and will doubtless do it much better than can a physician like me who never had diabetes. Some articles will be written by physicians, but they will all be written in simple plain English. The latest results of research will be presented, and the journal will be attractively printed and illustrated.

Getting it will be like having a doctor in the family—one expert in the field of diabetes.

A cheering part of this program is that the journal will be sent free to every diabetic in the United States and Canada who will send his name to The Diabetic, PO Box 7035, Highland Station, Minneapolis, Minn., 55411.

Health officers are becoming disturbed because in the past 10 years, there has been an alarming ten times increase in the amount of disease due to the infection of food with an organism much like the typhoid one: it is called salmonella. It lives in the intestinal tracts of animals and certain human beings. Hence, when it makes a lot of people ill with diarrhoea and fever and toxicity, we can be sure that either food or water has become infected. Last year, there were 9,680 cases reported in the U.S., and we can be sure there were as many more whose troubles were not recognized or reported.

The disease can be anything from a mild diarrhoea to an acute blood poisoning. The best treatment is prevention, and this means that people who love their meat almost raw are in danger. In order to destroy the bacteria, it is best to cook food, the experts say, for some 20 minutes.

If a high temperature is used, three minutes will be enough. But of course, much more time will be needed for a large mass of food, like a big standing rib roast.

Store Your Garden Produce

While parsnips and leeks can remain in the soil to be lifted as needed, and late sowings of carrots used over the fall months, other root crops together with fruits will need to be stored.

Jack

The storage life of vegetables and fruits depends entirely on temperature and air moisture.

Squash and similar crops need to be warm and fairly dry. Apples, pears, potatoes, carrots require cool and moist quarters.

These conditions are difficult to produce in the modern home where the only provision for storing food is in a deep freezing unit.

Gardeners who have successfully produced food crops this year would be wise to give consideration now to storage facilities, also for tubers, corns, bulbs and roots of flowering plants.

It may be possible to utilize some existing part of the home with modifications, but it is more likely that a food storage place will have to be constructed.

FRESH AIR

Bulletins from the Department of Agriculture and lumber firms sometimes contain useful suggestions. The main requirement is plenty of fresh air, an earth floor or water trays for humidity, and freedom from frost.

Containers, such as boxes and sacks, will also be needed. Used containers carry the disease spores of storage rots and eggs of storage pests and therefore need thorough cleansing before being used for this season's crops.

EARLY START

The work should be attended to at once to permit thorough drying and the evaporation of disinfectants or soap odors which could damage or taint the produce.

Inside storage is necessary in this climate because the heavy winter rainfall precludes the use of pits or surface storage clamps in the open garden.

LBJ Invited Bennett But U.K. Came First

VANCOUVER—Premier W. A. C. Bennett said President Johnson suggested they fly to Seattle together, but he had to decline.

The invitation came when they talked aboard the president's 707 jet before it left Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Bennett said he had to return to Victoria to "pick up some things" before going on to Seattle for a U.S. flight to England.

He will spend at least two weeks there and on the continent. The premier said he talked with the president about the Columbia River.

But he did not bring up the subject of northern development, as he earlier said he would.

He did not talk about his plan to make the Yukon part of B.C. and to have the 1,200-mile Alaska highway paved.

SYNOPSIS—A ridge of high pressure offshore gave considerable clearing to coastal areas this morning. The cloudy, showery conditions in the interior this morning will gradually give way to this clearing trend. In this cooler, drier mass of air temperatures will drop sharply into the 30s at many interior points tonight. Another storm is developing. This one will reach the Queen Charlotte Friday morning affecting all of western B.C. during the day.

MAPLE LEAF DESIGN

Pearson Reaffirms Stand on New Flag

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislature Reporter
VANCOUVER—Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson Wednesday night brushed aside any question of a personal compromise on his new Canadian flag.

A crowd of 750 people who came to shake his hand at a coffee reception held by the Liberal party cheered wildly as Mr. Pearson rededicated himself to his maple leaf design.

He made it clear that he expects the House of Commons special committee to approve and the House itself to adopt the recommendation without further fuss.

DISPLAYS EMOTION

His impromptu but firm speech—a rare display of emotion—crushed speculation that he might be willing to accept a different flag.

"I hope this committee will do a good job for Canada. I know it will do it in a constructive way," he said. "When the report is made the House of Commons in a free vote will decide what is best for the country."

PERSONAL OPINION

But then he went on to express what he termed a personal opinion.

"I'm as dedicated to the idea of a distinctive national flag based on the maple leaf design as I ever have been," he declared.

"And I hope and believe this will turn out to be the decision of the House of Commons and the decision will be made after the committee has reported in six weeks."

The issue, he said, is being settled by the people.

"The members of parliament represent the people."

"I'm taking responsibility for this as the leader of the government."

"HURT"

Mr. Pearson said he was "hurt" when he heard himself accused of doing this for personal reasons or for Quebec.

"I think this is the best thing for Canada; I think it should have been done a long time ago."

He said he was even more hurt to be accused of dishonoring the past and betraying Canada's traditions.

"Nobody in Canada has more devoted pride in Canada and at the same time more proud of the associations with tradition and the Commonwealth traditions and Britain than I am."

"I'm proud and devoted to the British people and all they've stood for," he said, adding that he served in the British army.

"That doesn't make it wrong to have a flag that speaks for Canada alone."

Devotion To Mary 'Excessive'

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Three leading cardinals, including Canadian Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, told Roman Catholic prelates at the Vatican Ecumenical Council Wednesday excessive devotion to the Virgin Mary is a barrier to Christian unity.

The warnings against over-emphasis on Marian devotion came as the Council Fathers took up the subject of Mary on the third day of the new council session in St. Peter's Basilica.

The issue of the Virgin Mary often has been a point of controversy between Roman Catholics.

Protestants have criticized heavy emphasis on Mary, particularly in parts of Latin America, as a form of idolatry.

Many Roman Catholic prelates from Latin America also have expressed concern and did so again at the council session Wednesday.

The Vatican's outstanding specialist on Christian unity, German-born Augustin Cardinal Bea, asked for specific directives against abuses, as did Cardinal Leger.

Price-Fixing Count Against Sunbeam Corp

OTTAWA (CP)—Price-fixing charges have been laid against Sunbeam Corporation (Canada) Limited.

The justice department has submitted the charges to a grand jury of the Ontario Supreme Court which has returned a true bill on four counts involving sales of electric appliances in Toronto, St. Catharines and Vancouver.

The action stems from an October, 1962, report of the Restrictive Trades Practices Commission, recommending that the government seek court action to prevent Sunbeam from trying to impose a minimum resale price on its products.

Conviction of resale price maintenance, under Section 34 of the Combines Investigation Act, could bring any amount of fine—the amount is up to the judge—as well as up to two years in prison for corporation officers.

The report followed a two-year inquiry into the distribution and sale of appliances, electric shavers and accessories made by the Toronto company, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Sunbeam Corporation of Chicago.

New Post Created By Board

School planning has become a fulltime job in Greater Victoria school district.

Recently appointed as District 61 planner, Jack Hubbard, 40, takes over a number of duties formerly attached to various members of the administrative staff, co-ordinating them as a special assistant to superintendent John Gough.

He spent the last 12 years in the education department, assisting former superintendent George Graham, who was concerned with school construction planning.

Much of Mr. Hubbard's time will be devoted to referendum planning as the district tries to look ahead to the next period of construction.

Strike Will Mean War Indonesia Warns Britain

JAKARTA (Reuters)—Rear Admiral Martadinata, Indonesian naval chief of staff, has warned that a British strike against any part of Indonesia would mean war.

Addressing submariners Wednesday at Surabaya, East Java, Martadinata said movements toward freedom in some parts of the world could not be stopped by any kind of weapons and Britain should accept this reality.

Urging the Indonesian navy to be constantly on the alert, he said the current tense situation in Malaysia was being forced on Indonesia and other peace-loving countries.

In Bandung, West Java, Defence Minister A. H. Nasution said the use of British Gurkha and New Zealand troops against Indonesian guerrillas in southern Malaya was proof Britain would not trust Malay troops.

Antara news agency reported. In a lecture to university students, Nasution said Malay volunteers supported by Indonesians now are moving in the Malaysian Peninsula.

He accused Britain of trying to provoke "another Tonkin incident."

Last week Britain announced that it would carry the fight to Indonesia if further Indonesian aggression occurred in Malaysia.

In the Gulf of Tonkin last August the U.S. retaliated for what it said were torpedo-boat attacks on American warships in international waters and bombed bases in North Vietnam.

Indonesia's President Sukarno has vowed to crush the year-old Malaysian federation which he has denounced as an extension of Western neo-colonialism.

Antara also reported that Indonesia's fleet was on manoeuvres in the Sunda Strait, between Java and Sumatra.

It said the exercise began Sept. 9 and would end Oct. 10. All shipping has been warned to keep clear of the area.

KUALA LUMPUR (Reuters)—Malaysian government officials appeared confident today that Indonesian guerrillas in Malaya are on the verge of being wiped out.

MORE FARM AID SOWN BY GOV'T

OTTAWA (CPL)—The Commons continued to make progress Wednesday in its consideration of government legislation dealing with farm problems.

Given first reading was a bill enabling the Farm Credit Corporation to make loans to groups of farmers to help them buy farm machinery. Conservative MPs argued in vain for assurances that the bill would go to the Commons agriculture committee.

Agriculture Minister Hays also introduced a resolution under which the federal government would pay up to 75 per cent of losses suffered by provinces in their crop insurance programs.

president as was everyone who saw him.

"He's a very fine man. I hope he stays president," Mr. Bennett said after Mr. Johnson left the airport in his official blue and silver plane, U.S. Air Force One, at 3:58 p.m.

The premier set the tone for the great day when he and his B.C. government delegation arrived at Sea Island all wearing the yellow rose of Texas.

And though the president's visit was brief—two minutes short of three hours—he impressed everyone with his ready smile, drawly Texas wit and inclination to meet as many people as possible.

The premier met Mr. Johnson and the prime minister at 1:01 as they stepped from the yellow and grey Jetstar that brought them from Great Falls, Mont., via a Columbia River side trip.

ROYAL SALUTE

Crisply the smart green-clad 100-man Victoria honor guard of the 1st Battalion Queen's Own Rifles presented a royal salute and army howitzers thundered a 21-gun cannonade.

It was the first time Mr. Johnson had set foot outside the U.S. since he became president last November.

"I am glad my first stop is in Vancouver," Mr. Johnson said. "Here is that spirit of adventure and excitement of building a nation—which is part of the west, which is my home also."

"I won't say Vancouver reminds me of Texas—I will say when I go home that Texas reminds me of Vancouver."

The president quickly proved he had done his homework.

"I have made careful inquiries and I will eat the salmon and praise the B.C. Lions," he said.

The Columbia Treaty, he said, would lay a new foundation of prosperity for Canadians and Americans.

Then, on a more serious note, the president added: "We will always stand with you in the defence of our freedom, but I also tell you that in the years to come my country will spare no effort to achieve a lasting peace."

DISCOVER CANADA

Mr. Johnson candidly said he hoped to learn more about Canada, and would encourage Americans to discover their neighbor.

Then as rain pelted even harder, he quipped: "In the midst of a great drought in Texas, we welcome this great rain here."

Mr. Pearson said it was appropriate the president's first visit should be to Canada, "your most candid and constructive critic," but also the closest friend of the U.S.

He termed the choice of Vancouver fitting.

"It is recognition of the surge of Canadian development west and north and of our interests and destiny across the Pacific."

"Your welcome could in no place be more sincere than in this great province."

The visitors drove to the border in the president's own limousine, flown in the night before by the USAF.

The motorcade stopped once only, for the president to shake hands with a woman and ask: "Does it always rain like this in B.C.?"

The Deas Thruway was closed to traffic as the official cars and press buses drove between 40 and 50 mph.

CHEERS, BANNERS

Along the way scattered groups of children and some adults cheered and waved. Some held banners saying "Welcome Johnson."

Red-coated Mounties guarded every bridge, overpass and cutoff.

At the Peace Arch the HMCS Naden band played Hail to the Chief.

"We want Johnson," the huge crowd chanted.

Half a mile either side of the border was jammed with cars.

"This is one of the proudest occasions in the history of B.C.," beamed Premier Bennett.

He called the Columbia Treaty "a new frontier of co-operation among nations of this troubled world."

VALUED FRIEND

He hailed President Johnson as "a very valued friend and a personal friend."

Then he handed the president a Thunderbird totem pole, gaily painted and carved by Henry Hunt of Victoria, the late Chief Mungo Martin's son-in-law.

He gave Mr. Pearson a matching totem featuring a head-dress motif.

Mr. Bennett and Mr. Pearson then signed approval of the treaty in souvenir round-bound folders.

Mr. Pearson kept his pen; Mr. Bennett didn't.

EXECUTIVE ORDER

Mr. Johnson signed an executive order appointing Bonneville power administration and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers as the official U.S. agents to carry out the terms of the treaty.

He used a different pen for each letter of his name and wandered around the platform giving souvenir pens to principal guests including the prime minister and Mr. Bennett.

Mr. Pearson took the stand and one look at the sky; he decided to forego his written text and gave a brief impromptu speech.

An aide later said that the prime minister wanted to give Mr. Johnson the maximum time available in the tight schedule.

He said it was an impressive and moving occasion not only because of the material benefits to Canada and the U.S., but because it demonstrated how two countries can and should work together.

'CONSTRUCTIVE' PACT

"If you come back," he told the president, "You will see this treaty has indeed been a constructive one and it is going to work to the benefit of both countries."

"This is a great day in the development of this part of North America."

Then the president, ignoring the rain completely, took off his stetson and gave the speech he intended to.

Afterwards as the prime minister and Mr. Bennett went off to the official cars, Mr. Johnson broke ranks and went to embrace the public.

HANDSHAKING

He moved slowly along the front ranks, sometimes grabbing half a dozen hands at once.

A uniformed nurse clutched him around the waist as the strength of the crowd began to pull him in.

Secret Service men, caught completely by surprise at the unexpected move, moved around him.

The president showed no restraint or hesitation in personally greeting as many people as possible—and no fear of the Beattle-type screams that followed him everywhere.

Finally into his car, he returned to the airport without stopping.

There he took the prime minister and Mr. Bennett aboard his aircraft for a half hour chat, coffee and hors d'oeuvres before taking off for Seattle.

Mr. Bennett left shortly afterwards for Victoria and then Seattle and his trip to Europe.

The prime minister went into Vancouver for a speech and press conference today.

LET'S TRY IT! Three would-be competitors eye one of the saucy Sabots that may well end up the winning boat at the open small-boat regatta, to be held at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club this weekend. They are, from left, John Van Amstel, Mrs. Peter Ferguson and Mr. Ferguson.

Battle of the Midgets Coming In 'Rookies Welcome' Regatta

By PAT DUFOUR

The sailing fever being roused at Newport, R.I., where the America's Cup series is being battled out, has boomeranged smack into our own waters.

The Royal Victoria Yacht Club has dreamed up a new project for this coming weekend that promises to fill Cadboro Bay with every eight-foot dinghy this side of Nanoset.

For the first time, the local club is planning to open its facilities to every would-be "small boat sailor" in the vicinity. They will be able to compete in an open regatta, even though they've never been within sound of a starting gun.

All that's required is a $1 registration fee, a small boat and the will to learn a little about the rudiments of competitive sailing.

BRIEFING

On Friday evening at 8:30 a skippers' briefing session will be held in the clubhouse. This is particularly planned for novices.

The weekend series will be divided into four classes. These are: Class A, experienced seniors (18 years or over); Class B, experienced juniors (under 18); Class C, novice seniors, and Class D, novice juniors.

First, second and third prizes will be awarded in each class for the series. Anxious parents may relax—power boats will patrol the course at all times and each competing boat will be required to carry an approved life jacket and bailer.

On Saturday morning, be-

HQ Official To Inspect Local Scouts

Director of Relationships Services at National Boy Scout Headquarters in Ottawa, B. H. Morton, will visit Victoria Friday, September 25, in the course of a tour of the province.

Arriving by ferry Friday morning, Mr. Morton will attend a luncheon with regional officials and sponsors at noon.

A regional Campfire will be held at Camp Barnard, Sooke, for all Scoutmasters, Cubmasters and adult supporters in the Greater Victoria area to meet Mr. Morton. Attendance of 300 to 400 is expected. Saturday morning, Mr. Morton will leave for the Islands Region.

LIAISON OFFICER

In his present position, the Director of Relationship Services is responsible for maintaining liaison with organizations and institutions that sponsor Canada's 5,600 Scout groups.

He also maintains contact with groups associated with the Boy Scout movement, such as the Red Cross, St. John Ambulance, UNICEF, Indian-Eskimo Association and others.

Associated with the Scout movement for over 30 years, Mr. Morton has been Scoutmaster of the 32nd Ottawa Troop for the past 22 years.

4,000 BOYS

Victoria currently has 88 Scout Troops comprising some 4,000 members. In addition there are about 700 adults associated with the movement.

The Victoria region extends as far west as Jordan River and as far north as Mill Bay.

Scouting in the region has increased more than 12 per cent in the past year. In most areas of the province memberships seem to have dropped slightly during the same period.

WATER USE

In the U.S., the total use of water amounts to more than 1,000 gallons per person each day.

ginning at 8:30, instruction in launching, rigging and practice sailing will be given, with each competitor being able to "get the feel" of the best way to handle his boat, round the markers and negotiate a good start.

Racing will begin at 1:30 p.m. and continue until 4:30 p.m. That evening, competitors will be guests at a social evening in the clubhouse, slated to begin at 8:30.

Sunday morning, series will be raced from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. with luncheon following. This will be served at a nominal cost in the clubhouse. The prize giving will be at 2 p.m.

Entries and enquiries should be made through the club sec-

TASTE THE THRILL

So, if you have a Sabot or small dinghy "beached" or lapping the waters of Elk Lake or Shawnigan Lake, this is your opportunity to taste the thrill of competition.

And, says Humphrey Golby, well-known sailor and RVYC member of 40 years' standing, "There's no finer way to learn to know how to sail than to get out in the small boats."

Optimistically he adds, "Who knows, this experiment may quite well end up in giving Canada some America's Cup sailors of her own!"

'Short-Stay Tourists' Problem for Operators

Tourists are coming and going at a faster pace than before.

Fred Martin, president of the B.C. Motels and Tourist Association, says:

"A lot are just passing through. Some come here and go out the same night."

Last year, slightly more than 1,250,000 tourists in 250,000 cars came to Vancouver Island. Nearly all passed at Victoria.

Cuba to Launch New Air Link With Bahamas

NASSAU (AP)—Cuba will fly a commercial plane to the Bahamas Monday, and exiles report it will be the beginning of daily flight service between Nassau and Havana.

If so, the flights could open a new escape route for discontented Cuban citizens and a new avenue of commercial trade for Cuba's hard-pressed economy.

At present Cuban Premier Fidel Castro maintains air links only with Spain and Mexico City because of the U.S. trade embargo.

The Cuban exile information service AIP said in Miami the new route would be flown daily by 89-passenger jets owned and operated by the Cuban government.

Comparative figures aren't available but tourist officials expect this year's total will be higher than 1963.

R. L. Golby, director of the B.C. Government Travel Bureau, says "it looks like the best year ever." Border crossings until the end of July were up 12 to 14 per cent.

"But the stayover is down," says Mr. Martin, operator of Hillside Auto Court.

Until the end of July, the only tourists who spent an average of more than two days in Victoria were from Ontario.

They stayed 2.4 days. Californians stayed 1.8 days. Washington visitors spent only 1.56 days.

"They used to stay better than three days," says Mr. Martin, adding it is a problem the tourist industry would have to consider.

"Another problem for motel owners was the growing number of campers."

On a recent Sunday trip through the Fraser Canyon, he counted 100 vehicles—and 17 had camping equipment.

Over-all, he described the local tourist season as "good." Poor weather affected some outlying motels but brought campers into town to escape the wet.

"Excellent," was the verdict of Bill Clark, chairman of the tourist industry group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

'Waistline Watchers' Waddle In; Waltz Out

The red carpet to physical fitness for Victorians was laid out Tuesday.

At 10 a.m., the Palm Springs Health Spa opened its brightly varnished mahogany doors for those who want to trim—or add—a few inches and a few pounds.

The spa, at 1315 Government, offers to "reduce, firm or build" your body.

"We're getting away from the old gym that was sweaty and dirty," said supervisor Charles Tartella, 33.

The spa opened its doors to 150 members—who paid $10 initiation fee and $8 a month for membership—for exercises only.

GRAND OPENING

Grand opening—complete with sauna bath—is set for next Monday.

Three instructors in black pants and white jackets attend to the men, while three instructresses, including Tartella's wife Margrit, 23, look after the ladies.

Surrounded by mirrors and piped music, members can work out on a variety of machines.

There are two "butterfly" machines—for building the bust; a hip "remover"—to get rid of excess fat, and a belt that vibrates at 1,500 revolutions a minute—to take away that double chin.

There are vibrator belts to firm up tissue, "grace lines" to roll away fat from waist to hips, and ultra violet lamps for Vitamin D—and a good tan.

HOOR IN SUN

"One minute under the lamps is equivalent to an hour under the sun," said Tartella.

Most of the members are between 30 and 70, "a lot of retired people and businessmen who stay at the office with no exercise program."

About half the members are women, many of them wives "of the retired and businessmen."

The spa is open for men Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturdays 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sundays from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

For the ladies, it's Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

10-CLUB PLAN

The Victoria spa, worth $100,000, is part of a 10-club plan costing $2,000,000 in Canada.

There are five clubs in Vancouver, two under construction in Edmonton and two more in Calgary.

The tested creed of supervisors of the Indianapolis-based chain is that a person needs to spend only 40 minutes at a time about three times a week to get into good condition in an average period of three to four months.

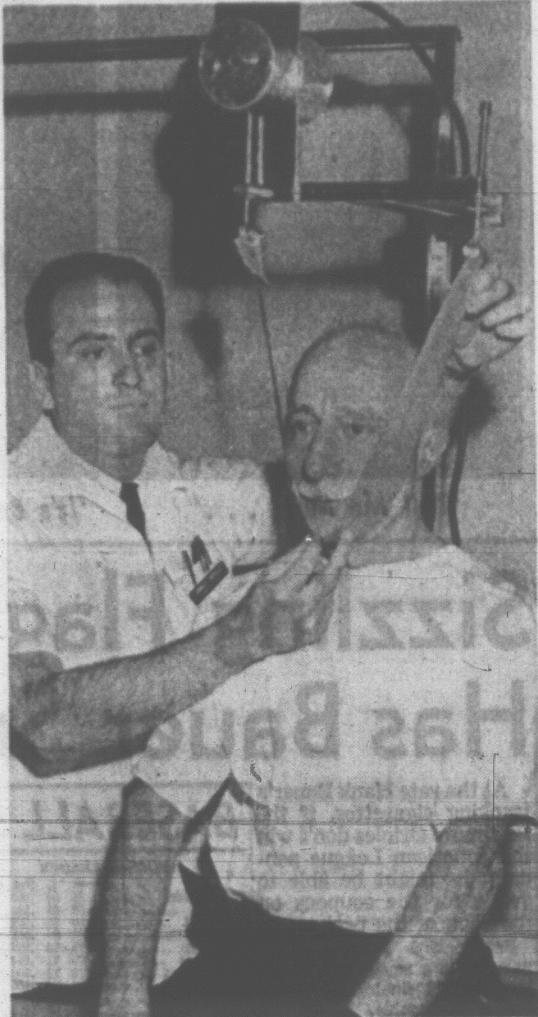

Programs are planned and tailored to the individual's requirements and condition by the instructors. Weight and other measurements are taken weekly.

Inside the spa, one of the first signs seen says: "No smoking."

"We encourage members to stop smoking," said Tartella, "and sauna baths help to get the nicotine out of tissues."

Two Drowned

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two men, both former residents of Scotland, are missing and presumed drowned on a moose hunting expedition on Hudson Bay about 600 miles northeast of here, it was reported Monday. Robert Dawson Killen, 24, of Glasgow, and David Lees Foster, 20, of Broughty Ferry, Scotland, were last seen Labor Day adrift in a canoe on which a small outboard motor had failed.

DOUBLE CHIN? Charles Tartella adjusts belt of a facial machine for Goodman Florence of Palm Springs Health Spa, which opened its doors at 10 a.m. this morning. Facial machine belt vibrates 1,500 times a minute and is one of several devices designed to melt, roll or shake away excess fat.

Floods Rake Texas After Heavy Storms

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Torrential downpours of 11 inches sent flood waters swirling into several southwest Texas villages as violent thunderstorms raked numerous sections of the state late Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Eleven inches of rain at Asherton and Catarina, about 100 miles southwest of San Antonio, sent small creeks out of their banks, flooding homes and other buildings. There were no deaths or injuries reported.

Heavy hail pounded the upper Panhandle when a thunderstorm packing 40-mile-an-hour winds hit that area during the night.

Thunderstorm activity continued over most of the state today, with heavy rains reported in the north Texas area.

Battle of Britain Commemorated At Sunday Service

A service of remembrance and thanksgiving will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. at Christ Church Cathedral to commemorate the Battle of Britain Sunday.

The 40-minute service is sponsored by the Air Force Officers' Association of Vancouver Island.

Also participating will be air cadet squadrons from Victoria, Duncan and Sidney and the general public.

"Canada was represented in the Battle of Britain by a number of young men who joined the Royal Air Force and by the first of many RCAF squadrons which left Canada during the war for services overseas," said F. T. S. Sehl, an official of the air force officers' association.

The service will be conducted by Dean Brian Whitlow.

India Aids Viet Nam

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India has promised South Viet Nam co-operation and assistance in "the economic, social and humanitarian fields" in its fight against the Communists, External Affairs Minister Swaran Singh told Parliament Tuesday. He said South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Khanh sought aid in a letter to Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri.

Retailers Wrestle With Christmas Decoration Plan

The retail merchants group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce turned down one Christmas decoration scheme Tuesday and will discuss others next Tuesday.

A sample of the scheme turned down at Douglas and Yates shows a gold-colored bell with two colored tinsel wreaths on either side hanging from a cluster light.

"It was felt that such a decoration was not in keeping with the character and tradition of Victoria," said Hugh Francis, chairman.

The scheme also was expensive. He said it would cost $5,000 to string the decoration along Douglas from Bay to Broughton.

Last Christmas the merchants placed Christmas trees throughout the downtown area and are trying for something different this year.

Make up your mind slowly.
Take a full
60 seconds.

A full minute may be longer than you ordinarily take over one sip of whisky.

Take that long with Time. The whisky in the hourglass bottle gives you a lot to think about.

The taste is light, warm, smooth.

You'll find you have never known a rye like this.

Think about the taste of this gentle whisky. Think about the taste of the whisky you usually buy. Think about how they compare.

It takes a long time to change a man's mind about whiskies.

All we ask is one minute.

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

In the flesh, Foster Hewitt, the octogenarian announcer, looks small enough to be eaten by Eddie Shack, the Toronto Maple Leafs winger, sort of. Certainly Hewitt isn't too much larger than Henri Richard, the Montreal vest-pocket size centre. Hewitt knows Shack socially; Richard knows Shack intimately. Last year Shack, lifting his head like an aroused Ferdinand, changed the color and architecture of Richard's nose in a National Hockey League bloodbath.

FOSTER HEWITT

Now Mr. Hewitt was sitting in the Empress lobby, passing time with the press before heading to Campbell River where he hoped to shake fins with a tyee.

He is no bigger than a tall jockey and like a good one, say Manuel Yeaza, he rides all out on questions.

Man-to-man, a pleasant hour went like this:

Question: Some people regard Shack as a marvellous spiritual cathartic. Others see him as an uncouth renegade, a sort of homicidal Paul Bunyan on skates. How does he come across to you?

Answer: "He's an enigma. I know what Gordie Howe has called him—a masochistic oaf. But I've seen Shack make moves in a game that Howe would envy."

"I'll always remember a night a year ago when Rangers were in Toronto. Mahovlich boomed in from the left wing, drove into the corner and passed to the trailing Red Kelly. Kelly, slapping at the puck, forced Gump Worsley to a sprawling save."

"The puck rebounded back to left wing. All of a sudden Shack was there. Out of position, on his wrong wing, from a bad angle, he hit the puck past Worsley. It was his 14th goal of the season."

Howe for Shack? Well, Would YOU?

Q: What about the impression that Shack doesn't care—about how or who he poleaxes, about position or about his lack of finesse?

A: "He knows that his style of playing involves . . . er, risks. Babe Pratt told me that Shack candidly admitted he intended to let Richard have it."

"When Pratt asked him why he didn't drop his stick, Shack said: 'He would have killed me. I'm no fighter.' But Shack cares about his play. On a train after a bad game, he won't talk to anybody. Won't join in the card games. Just sits and broods about his mistakes."

"Some call him dirty, some rough. Perhaps his showmanship may be misguided."

Q: You made a comparison with Howe. If you were Imlach, would you trade Shack for Howe?

A: (Smiling) "I'd consider it."

Q: The Western Hockey League is busting its girdle to be accepted by the NHL. But the NHL is as cool to the proposal as a confirmed spinster to the advances of a wolf. Sir?

A: "There aren't enough good hockey players around. You would have the same situation as the New York Mets or the Houston Colts. On every NHL team there are only three to five GREAT players."

"If the NHL expanded now it would only weaken the professional status it had spent years building."

'Let's Use Pros—The Europeans Do'

Q: Canada hasn't been cutting it in amateur (cash please, no cheques) hockey. If you were responsible for our future policy what would you do?

A: "First I would make them—the Europeans—play by CAHA rules. It's our game but they have interpreted the rules to suit them. Secondly I wouldn't consider sending over anybody but pros. You could get a team from NHL players who don't get much ice time. Billy Harris, for instance."

"I'm not knocking Father Bauer's effort with what amounted to juniors. No amount of money could buy for Canada the image of sportsmanship his team left at Innsbruck. But good juniors don't beat pros. And I don't care what Europeans teams call themselves, they're pros."

Q: Since my generation was in short pants, your voice has been symbolic with hockey broadcasting in Canada. Some infants are born with a silver spoon in their jaws. Did you come with a microphone stuck in your tonsils?

A: "Until I was 21 the closest touch I had with radio was turning it on. I was a cub reporter for the Toronto Star in 1923, making $15 a week. A long week, at that."

"I came into the office one night about six. The radio editor had been trying all day to get somebody to broadcast a hockey game—the first in the east. The older fellows backed off, but I didn't have enough seniority to say no and get away with it."

Even Affluent Have Their Crosses . . .

"So without supper—there wasn't time—I dashed over to the old Mutual Arena. The Parkdale Canoe Club was playing Kitchener—with George Hainsworth in goal—in a Senior OHA game."

"There was no mike. I just picked up the telephone and started talking. Between not knowing the players too well and frequent interruptions from the telephone operator—she couldn't believe anybody could talk THAT long—it was quite a night. The game went on overtime and my voice almost went with it. But I guess, looking back, it couldn't have been too bad. They kept me at it."

From that humble beginning fearless Foster warbled his way to success. Today he owns a radio station, among other properties. They will never have to hold any benefit nights for him.

Even the most affluent have their crosses, however. In Hewitt's case this has nothing to do with radio stations or the Toronto Maple Leafs.

He is a director of the Eastman of the Eastern Football Conference . . . the incomparable Toronto Argonauts.

'Coach Has to Skate, Too!'

Laff-A-Minute Pilous Should Keep 'em Happy

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Rudy Pilous blew into town Wednesday night, as refreshing as a pot full of money at the first of the month, and every bit as welcome.

He came to serve hockey, but the coach of Victoria's Western Hockey League team will also be a boon to the local banquet circuit.

(Service clubs please note.) It's been 10 years since we've rubbed shoulders in the same room but Rudy Pilous, I can safely say, hasn't changed. If there's anything new, it's the repertoire. Master of the dialects, he's had time to pick up new stories and improve on the old ones.

They come at a mile-a-minute clip from a 50-year-old who has to be considered as one of the most noted and best raconteurs in sport.

THE NHL COACH The words and stories aren't meant to disguise the fact that Pilous also happens to be one of the most knowledgeable men in hockey. He brought Chicago Black Hawks out of the depths of the National League to a Stanley Cup victory in 1961, and last year piloted Denver Invaders, banded together for the first time, to first place in the Western League.

His hockey career has taken Pilous to every corner of this continent as well as to England. He's worked at every phase of hockey, including training, program-selling, managing, promoting, building and, of course, coaching. And when they'd let him, he'd even usher.

He's back in B.C. and it might be ironic to mention the fact that hockey won Pilous from the B.C. Telephone Company. He might have made a good linesman.

That was his trade 29 years ago when he came to play senior for Nelson's Maple Leafs.

'RAIN, ISN'T IT?' Pilous almost made up his mind to make it his business until he received a call, while working atop a telephone pole in Nelson, to play in England.

He left his equipment atop the pole, scurried down and rushed off to England. Hockey has never let Pilous go. He's refreshingly blunt and honest.

"I'm off to a good start," he said Wednesday night. "When I left my wife, I told her it would be raining when I got here. You do call this rain, don't you?"

Other Pilous-isms: "When I left the Toronto camp in Peterborough, our leader asked me: 'Would you like Billy Harris?'"

"Send him," I replied. "He MIGHT make our club."

"Ask a silly question and you'll get a silly answer!"

MORE THAN ONE WAY . . . Talk got around to the present crop on hand, and one player's name kept creeping into the conversation.

"I'll tell you something about him," said Pilous. "He's great for the team."

"I remember once in Denver last year when somebody swiped my coat. I had a hunch it was one of the players, but it could have been the hotel chambermaid, or anyone . . ."

"I was boiling."

"We got out to a practice and I guess I started to take it out on the team. We have one skating drill that's real tough. You skate forward, but when I blow the whistle you must skate backwards without turning around. If you blow the whistle often enough, the players never get to the end of the rink."

"Well, I blew it."

"They had their tongues hanging out and looked as if they would drop."

"Then I heard this player pipe up: 'For cripes sake, someone give him his g.d. coat!'"

Sandown Gates Open Saturday

The horses are ready. The jockeys are set to go. The punters are anxious.

That's the picture for Sandown Park which needs only a smile from the weatherman to ensure a rousing start for Vancouver Island's 17-day race meeting commencing Saturday at 2 p.m.

The calibre of competition for the opening day feature, the Colonist Handicap, received a powerful injection today when McGregor Glen, winner of the $10,000 Premier's Championship, shipped into Sidney.

NEW CHUTES

Only the distance—6½ furlongs out of one of two new chutes—appears to stand in McGregor Glen's disfavor. Still he's sharp and with racing luck could take the major portion of the $1,000 purse.

Jewel's Hawk, Overcurrent, Island Flag, Foxy Alex, Dark Echo and the good three-year-old Nickonaches, all likely starters in the feature, could make it interesting.

For the first time in Sandown's history there will be races for two-year-olds. Already on the grounds are 14

HERE SATURDAY . . .

Record-Poppers Galore Coming

No less than 10 Canadian record holders will appear at the Crystal Garden Saturday.

Eight of them are on the 1964 Canadian Olympic swimming team. Between the 10, they hold 13 Canadian marks.

They will appear along with the rest of the Canadian swim team at the Pre-Olympic Open and Age Group Swim Meet, sponsored by the YMCA Flying Y and the Daily Times.

Holders of two records each are Toronto's Dan Sherry, Sandy Gilchrist from Ocean Falls, and Barbara Hounsell of Los Angeles.

Sherry holds the men's 110-yard freestyle and butterfly marks.

Gilchrist accounts for the men's 440-yard freestyle and medley marks, and Miss Hounsell is the women's 220 and 440-yard medley record holder.

Ron Jacks of Vancouver is the men's 220-yard backstroke record holder, Jane Hughes of Vancouver holds the women's 440 freestyle mark, and Louise Kennedy of London, Ont., holds the women's 110 freestyle record.

Joey Weir of Toronto holds the 110 yard women's backstroke mark, and Marion Lay is the women's 220 freestyle record holder.

All are members of the Olympic team.

Other swimmers who hold Canadian marks and who will be at the meet are Jack Kelso of Vancouver, 220-yard breaststroke record holder, and Marion Wilmskin of Vancouver, who holds the 200-yard women's breaststroke mark.

Soccer Youngsters Can Still Register

Minor booters can still register for the 1964 soccer season.

Boys 8, 9 and 10 are invited to sign up at one of the following parks: Hampton, Windsor, Majestic, Central, Reynolds Road, Sidney, Bullen, Lansdowne, Beacon Hill, and Royal Oak Saturday at 10:30 a.m.

Older boys not yet affiliated with a club should contact Doug Day at GR 7-1655 after 6 p.m.

'It's Been a Long Trip . . .'

Sizzling Flag Race Has Bauer 'Smoking'

At the rate Hank Bauer's smoking cigarettes, if the Baltimore Orioles don't win the American League pennant, he might be able to get it for the coupons on the back of the pack.

Bauer, who admittedly has turned into a smokestack in the tension-filled final days of the pennant scramble, huffed and puffed Wednesday night as his Orioles blew sole possession of the American League lead by losing to Minnesota, 2-1.

It was Baltimore's 14th loss in the last 25 games and dropped the Orioles into a flat-footed tie for first place with the Chicago White Sox while the third-place New York Yankees climbed to within one percentage point of the top.

And Bauer has been smoking so many cigarettes during the slump, he could make a steel mill look like it's on strike.

'FOURTH PACK TODAY'

Bauer admitted it recently when he was asked how the tight struggle has affected him. "I haven't lost any hair, although it is a little whiter," he said. "I'm sleeping and eating all right, and I don't have ulcers."

Then he pointedly held up a lit cigarette and said: "This is my fourth pack today."

SOX TIE FOR FIRST

The White Sox climbed into a tie for first by defeating Detroit 4-1, while the Yankees dumped Los Angeles Angels 9-4 Wednesday.

The Orioles and White Sox both have 13 games remaining to 18 for the Yankees, who have two fewer losses than the leaders. The Yankees could take over the top spot today by beating the Angels in the only AL game scheduled.

Philadelphia Phillies' invisible ally—time—is back at work for them in the National League pennant race.

Although more than two weeks remain in the season, the Phillies have reached the point where they have a practical magic number—the number of victories that will clinch the pennant even if their rivals win all their remaining games.

500 MIGHT DO IT

The number is "11"—meaning that if the Phillies win 11 of their last 16 games, it's all over—no matter what the other contenders do. Those 11 victories would give the Phillies a season total of 99—a total which is now inaccessible to the St. Louis Cardinals, Cincinnati Reds and San Francisco Giants.

And so the countdown continues even though the Houston Colts slowed the Phillies' march toward their first flag since 1950 with Wednesday night's 6-5 victory. The Reds were the only contender to win—beating the Chicago Cubs 5-3—while the Milwaukee Braves defeated the Cardinals 3-2 and the New York Mets topped the Giants 4-0.

Pittsburgh Pirates downed Los Angeles Dodgers 7-5 in a so-what game.

Two more are getting into the act, so the inter-city match-play golf championship adopts a "gang war" appearance. When Laurie Carroll and Lyle Crawford cross clubs for the Times-Province match-play trophy on Oct. 4, Bill Wakeham and Al Nelson will tag along to supply some extra crowd appeal.

LYLE CRAWFORD

Officially approved by the B.C. Professional Golfers' Association, the match will be staged at New Shaughnessy in Vancouver. It's an all-pro show, of course, and entire proceeds from the affair will be turned over to the Summer Camp operated by the B.C. Society for Crippled Children. B.C.'s junior golfers were destined, originally, to receive the proceeds. They've decided, however, to help less fortunate youngsters.

The four golfers will be swinging for a $300 pot.

Crawford won the Vancouver match-play crown by defeating Nelson in the final, while Carroll came out on top in the Island final by decisioning Wakeham.

SHORT CHIPS: Ray Harrington, playing in a threesome with Ron Ferguson and Fred Norworthy, scored an ace Sunday on Cedar Hill's 16th hole... Al Bibby hit for an ace at Metchoan... J. J. Hine emerged the winner of a tombstone competition Wednesday at Oak Bay... Runnerup was club president W. F. (Bill) Moore... It proved extremely popular, with 73 teeing off... Eleven of the 73 actually finished in the 18th hole... New junior champion at Uplands is Marty Smith... He topped the 18-hole medal event with a six-over-76... Low net honors went to Murray Lawson, who scored a net 67.

For the benefit of those who missed the change in dates, the Portland Open goes this week... Seattle Open starts next week... Rumor has it that Wakeham will definitely get the boat that was put up as a special hole-in-one prize in the recent B.C. Open... The Open's sponsors are waiting for confirmation from Lloyd's of London... Wakeham was an amateur at the time, but declared himself professional after the tournament... Along a more factual vein, Wakeham will team up with Cedar Hill's Dick Munn as a button-challenging team...

Button matches, incidentally, aren't expected to get under way until Dr. George Bigelow returns from his trip to the Old Country... George and Ron MacLeod, due back from Jasper any day now, are the button defenders... Laurie Kerr fired a three-over-par 73 to claim medal honors in Colwood's club championship event... He finished a stroke ahead of Bill Garner and two ahead of Vic Painter and Ricky Kent... Big surprise of the first round at Uplands was Keith Swetnam's victory over 1983 champion Fred Ranson... Medallist Gord Fellow got by Gil Briscoe safely... Greg Barnes spoiled Mike Graas' bid for a "double" at Cedar Hill... The 18-year-old Graas was in the final of both the junior and the men's championship... Barnes beat Graas 3 and 1 in the junior final and Mike is due to tackle Bert Wynn in the men's final this weekend...

FOR ISLAND MEET

Ski Buffs Converge On Shawnigan Lake

Over 65 water-skiers from all corners of Vancouver Island will send Shawnigan Lake waters spraying Saturday in the fourth annual Vancouver Island closed championships.

All three skiing categories—slalom, trick, and jumping—are on the agenda for the Victoria Aqua Ski Club-sponsored meet.

The all day competition will get under way at 8:30 a.m. in the waters off Mountain View Auto Court.

Bill Hughes of Victoria will be trying for his fourth straight men's slalom championship. A large contingent of skiers from Lake Cowichan, including war amputee Roy Carsen, who has astounded experts with his agility on the jump, will be trying to take the trophies up-island.

Top events will be the men's slalom competition at 8:30 a.m., and the men's jumping division at 4:30 p.m. The men's, women's, boys', girls' and veterans' slalom events will go to 1:30. Men's tricks competition is scheduled to get under way at the same time. Boys', veterans' and men's jump events will be held from 2:30 to 4:30.

11:00 a.m. Championship Flight—Naysmith vs. Robertson, Foulister vs. Dye, 11:00—Peterson vs. Sinclair, Fry vs. Fumfrey.

11:14 First Flight—Smith vs. McLeod, Carroll vs. Ritchie.

11:20 Scott vs. MacMillan, Warren vs. Fletcher.

11:26 Third Flight—Bryan vs. Cross, Hagan vs. Mitchell.

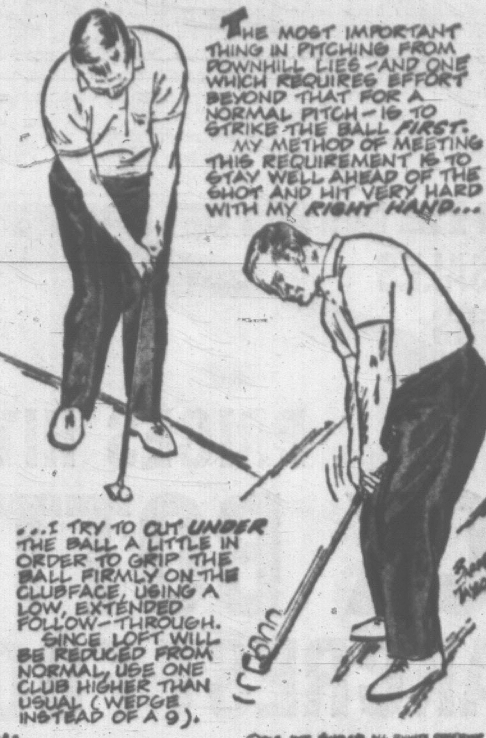

11:32 Doherty vs. Spandler, Archibald vs. Kelly.

11:42 Fifth Flight—Parsons vs. Wilson, Pantelek vs. Callan.

Leafs' Sawchuk Faces Old Pals

Last year's National Hockey League finalists—

Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings—meet in the first of a three-game exhibition series in Detroit's Olympia Stadium tonight.

The series resumes at Toronto Saturday and winds up in Kitchener Sunday.

Although the Stanley Cup champion Leafs will be using two goaltenders, the limelight will be on Terry Sawchuk, the former Red Wing who went to Toronto in last spring's player draft.

The Bruins play Chicago Black Hawks tonight and Friday.

At St. Catharines, where the Black Hawks are holding training sessions, coach Billy Reay ran the club through a brisk scrimmage Wednesday.

Montreal Canadiens, who opened their training camp at the Montreal Forum Tuesday with 90 players reporting, suffered their first casualty Wednesday when rightwinger Bobby Rousseau was ordered to bed with influenza.

The Canadiens also announced the signing of defencemen Jacques Laperriere and Terry Harper to one-year contracts.

Crozier, who replaced Sawchuk in 15 games last season, was the standout performer in scrimmages at the Wings' training camp in Detroit Wednesday.

The Leafs reported from their training camp at Peterborough Wednesday that defenceman Bobby Baun had signed his 1964-65 contract and that Don Simmons, Toronto's sub goaltender for the last three seasons, will perform with Tulsa in the Central Professional League this year.

The Leafs will use six defencemen and 15 forwards against the Wings tonight.

Frank Mahovlich is the only Toronto veteran not expected to play. He has influenza.

The Leafs will also employ veteran Red Kelly who missed the three Toronto exhibition games to date.

At Winnipeg, where New York Rangers opened their training camp Monday, the club has been going through two practice sessions daily in preparation for their first exhibition game Sunday, against Baltimore Clippers of the American League, a Ranger farm club.

The men's, women's, boys', girls' and veterans' slalom events will go to 1:30. Men's tricks competition is scheduled to get under way at the same time. Boys', veterans' and men's jump events will be held from 2:30 to 4:30.

Hot Netminder Throws Choke On Vancouver

WHITBY, Ont. (CP)—Goaltender Pat Baker continued to rob Vancouver Carlings Wednesday night as the western lacrosse team went down to its second straight defeat at the hands of Brooklin Merchants in the Mann Cup series.

'Bellies Blast Referee

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Oshawa Green Gaels moved closer to the Minto Cup Wednesday night while New Westminster Salmonbellies complained about the work of a referee.

"We don't want that same referee again," said coach Keith Jackson after his club lost 10-7 to the Gaels in the battle for the Canadian junior lacrosse title. The Gaels took a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven series.

The work of referee Earl McDonald was "terrible," said Jackson who planned to request a change before the third game of the series here Friday night. Jackson said his Salmonbellies played a better game than Monday when they lost 15-13, but his club still "blew it."

"The Gaels are just in better condition," said Jackson.

Jim Bishop, coach of the Ontario squad, said the game was "one of the best our club has played this season."

SCORES TWO GOALS

Ken Thompson scored two goals for the Gaels and set up five more. One of the goals and one of the assists came during 25 seconds of the fourth quarter which began in a 7-7 tie.

Bill Armour, picked up from Hastings, Ont., for the series, scored three goals. Jim Hinkson, Brian Thompson, Jim Higgs and Gaylord Powless rounded out the Oshawa scoring.

Wayne Bellwood was New Westminster's most productive man, scoring two. Ken Tory, John Shmyr, Bob Parrent, Bill Robinson and Mac Tyler got the others.

Boot Specialists Showing the Way In Grid Scoring

(Times News Services)
Hamilton's Don Sutherland and Larry Robinson of Calgary are accentuating the "foot" in "football."

The place-kicking halfbacks have hoofed their way to top place in Canadian Football League scoring. Sutherland leads the Eastern Conference with 41 points while Robinson is best in the west with 56.

Senior Final Established For Curlers

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian curling championship for senior players 55 and older was announced this week by the Dominion Curling Association.

Two rinks from Ontario and one from each of the other provinces will compete in the final, the announcement said. The first tournament is to be held March 22, 1965, at Port Arthur.

The DCA is to handle arrangements for the national competition. Member associations in the provinces would handle provincial playdowns.

Sam Rothschild of Sudbury will be the competition's co-ordinator and national liaison officer.

TURN DOWN ALL OFFERS

Tribe's Directors Prefer Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—General manager Gabe Paul said he had met informally with 15 directors of the Cleveland Indians baseball club and all agreed they want to keep the team where it is.

"They are willing to keep it here at a huge personal sacrifice," Paul said.

He said the financially-troubled Indians have received offers from 10 or 12 other cities seeking the franchise and termed all the proposals "fantastically attractive."

"We would turn down all the other offers in a minute if we had assurance we could stay alive here. We would be satisfied with $1,000,000 less in advance revenue here than we are offered anywhere else. The instant we have assurance of a satisfactory advance here, we'll stop considering other proposals."

Paul, the American League club's biggest stockholder, reported earlier this week that Cleveland finished $1,200,000 in the red last season and so far has lost $800,000 this year.

Paul said the situation has brightened since rumors started circulating that the Indians would move. Among the cities that were reported to have tried to lure the Indians away are Atlanta, Seattle, Oakland, Calif., and Dallas.

Attendance so far this season is 588,512, compared with a total of 562,507 last year when Cleveland finished in a fifth-place tie with Detroit.

Paul said the situation has brightened since rumors started circulating that the Indians

DOLING OUT $3,825 in cheques to local charities Friday were officers of HMCS Margaree, CPO David Thomas, the ship's coxswain, and Cmdr. J. L. Panabaker, her senior

MARGAREE IN REFIT

Sailors Donate to Community

The ship's company of Esquimalt-based destroyer-escort HMCS Margaree has donated $3,825 to 12 community service agencies.

The money is from the ship's fund built up from canteen sales and was allocated by members of the DE's welfare committee.

Margaree started undergoing refit Monday and her crew will be paid off Sept. 25 before assignment to other Pacific Command units.

Margaree has donated a total of $4,657.50 to charitable groups since the beginning of the year.

RECIPIENTS

Recipients of cheques were: Greater Victoria United Appeal, $1,500; Salvation Army, $375; Queen Alexandra Solarium, $150; Goodwill Enterprises, $100; Protestant Orphanage, $100; CARE of Canada, $150, and $50 to an 11-year-old girl in Hong Kong whom the Margaree "adopted" several years ago.

The ship's company has sent money monthly to pay for the child's education, clothing and food.

Other donations went to the RCN benevolent fund ($1,000) which provides financial assistance to naval personnel and their families and to the Armed Forces Centre ($250).

Cheques of $50 also went to the Maritime Museum of B.C., the Pacific Command sports fund and the command's Well Baby Clinic.

United Appeal general chairman D. L. Lawson, whose organization received the largest donation, said it was "the best news the United Appeal has had so far."

"Once again the navy is leading the way and showing a real sense of responsibility toward the community."

Lab Reports Delay Case Against Pair

Two young men accused of attempted murder were remanded for one week when they appeared in Saanich magistrate's court Wednesday.

Rodney Leason, 22, of 1300 Gladstone, and Gary McWhirter, 22, of Sooke, are charged with attempting to murder a man by beating him with full beer bottles in a lonely spot near Prospect Lake last Thursday.

The man they are alleged to have attacked, Nicola Zagoric of Squamish, is recovering from his injuries at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Leason was represented in court Wednesday by lawyer Cecil Branson and Bob Price acted for McWhirter.

Saanich Prosecutor Ken Murphy said a preliminary hearing of the charge against the accused cannot be held until Sept. 30 at the earliest.

He said laboratory evidence in the case will not be available until then. A date for the hearing will be set next Wednesday.

Backslider Given Break By Magistrate

A man who risked prison to get a carton of cigarettes was given a break by the magistrate Wednesday.

Owen Pettigrew, 56, of 1436 Stadacona, was fined $100 and put on probation for six months after he pleaded guilty to theft.

Evidence showed he stole a $3.25 carton of cigarettes from a Pandora Avenue store Tuesday.

He had a criminal record but has been out of trouble for several years. Magistrate William Ostler wanted to know why, with his history, he took the chance of going back to prison.

Said Pettigrew, "I was drinking." The magistrate said he would give him a chance to show he had reformed by not sending him to jail.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Randy Brasher, 9, Manchester, Tenn., for his question:

What Is Meant by Different Blood Types?

When you go to a hospital you are given a number of tests. Chances are the experts will take a sample of your blood. They will find out and perhaps tell you the blood type to which you belong. You may belong in book group O or A, in B or in AB. At one time a doctor had to know your blood type if he planned to perform an operation. The bright red color of blood comes from billions of swarming cells called corpuscles. There are so many of these little round midgets that you might think blood is made entirely of red corpuscles. But this is not so. There are also assorted white blood cells. And red cells and white cells all float freely in a stream of straw-colored liquid called plasma. At one time operations were very risky because so many patients died from loss of blood. Then it was discovered that a healthy person could give or donate some of his blood to the victim of an accident or to someone recovering from surgery. This exchange was called a blood transfusion—and it did not always work. Sometimes the blood from the healthy person caused the red cells of the patient to clump together and the patient died. But sometimes the transfusions worked.

About 30 years ago doctors learned why some persons can exchange their blood and some cannot. All human blood is a stream of liquid plasma teeming with red cells and white cells. But blood comes in different types. Some types carry chemicals that upset the red cells carried by other types of blood. If a person gets a transfusion from the wrong blood type, the chemicals in the donor's blood caused the red cells of the patient to clog together in clumps.

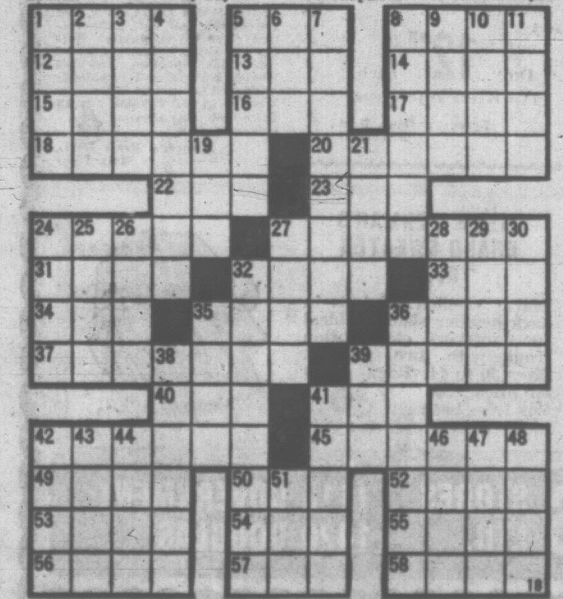

Blood Transfusion Safe

There are four main blood types, and most experts call them groups O and A, B and AB. Most people in the world belong to blood group O. This popular type of blood is the safest for transfusions. It does not harm the red cells of other persons with O-type blood or those with types A or B or AB-type blood. But an O-type person may be given only blood from another O type. The A-type blood clumps with B type. But a person with AB-type blood may get a safe transfusion from the same blood type or from any of the other three blood types.

Nowadays a patient may have a safe transfusion even when there is no time to check his blood type. Instead of whole blood he will be given blood plasma. This is the liquid stream in which the red and white corpuscles float. These cells make up a little more than half of the blood, and they are taken out when the whole blood is put into a whirling machine. The plasma that remains is less than half the amount of the whole blood—but it will give a safe transfusion to persons of every blood type.

So there I was at the Soupy Sales TV set at WNEW, trying to feel calm about getting hit by a very liquid pie. (Soupy has moved his pie face act to the sophisticated east.)

"Oh, it'll be a lot of fun," they all assured me... when I say "they all" I do not refer to any who were going to be hit.

So I undertook being the soul of nonchalance. Debonnaire, aloof, distant.

"Oh, you did bring another shirt, didn't you?" they wanted to ask... "Of course you've a fresh jacket. In... uh... case"...

And then—there I was... SLOP! SLOSH! SQUUSH! A gooey mess drenched my glasses, eyes, hair, ears.

"It's delicious!" I gurgled. But 'twasn't. It was shaving cream. Which, thankfully, came off, in only half an hour's scrubbing.

"How many times have you been hit in the face with a pie?" I asked Soupy, as we stood there suds to suds.

"Oh, maybe 18,000." He rubbed six inches of lather out of his neck and snapped it affectionately at a passing stagehand.

Lucky him!

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Comic Allan Drake weds pretty ex-Playboy Bunny Wanda Owens Sept. 27... Liz you sometime about how I broke the rules.

1—Be organized. That isn't easy. But it's easier if you start off by deciding that you will reread each night the notes you've taken during the day. Psychologists have proven you lose 70 per cent of what you don't reread immediately.

2—Select one spot at home for studying or try to keep it as uncluttered as possible. It doesn't matter whether it is close to a radio or TV.

3—Set a routine. This sounds dull, but it solves problems. For example, decide which TV programs you want to see. Cut them to a minimum, and use them psychologically as rewards for previous study periods.

4—Despite all distractions (I don't care if the Beatles want to hear your record collection tonight) set up a schedule for the week. It depends on you, but after Grade 9 you will need at least two or three nights at home reviewing material.

5—Read. Not just what you're studying but anything on your course suggested as supplemental reading. It's an often proven fact that those who do best on any exam are students years earlier. And you can steer yourself any direction you wish.

Tend to Daydream

6—Make the most honest assessment you can of your own strong and weak points. This will hurt. But it may give you some idea of what you should stress in home study. We all tend to emphasize our best subjects. We shouldn't.

7—A great many people (including myself) tend to daydream. The way to fight this is to keep a daydream chart. It's a peculiar psychological truth that mental quirks disappear when you concentrate on them. At least it works for daydreams.

8—Realize that your future depends upon what you do today—immediately, in fact. It's not enough to decide that next week will do. You may be several days behind the other fellow. And even he may have trouble passing!

Good luck.

Taylor won't wear makeup, in "The Sandpiper"—but Richard Burton will... "Golden Boy" will shutter for one day in Detroit, so Sammy Davis can observe the Jewish holidays... Katy Jurado, filming a "Girl Talk" TV'er, asked not to be questioned about ex-husband Ernest Borgnine...

Lionel Hampton and Benny Goodman played, and Jack Dempsey and Sen. Ribicoff sang, at a vote-getting rally here... Abbe Lane and fiancé Perry Left were offered a free honeymoon at the Concord, "the house policy for all couples who marry after meeting here"...

Mort Sahl's taking barjo lessons for "The Sign in Sidney Brustein's Window"...

Jonathan Winters is selling his N.Y. home, moving to L.A. A famed actor has been passing out, in his bare feet, in restaurants.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Man blames fate for other accidents, but feels personally responsible for a hole-in-one."

Seeds of Failure Are Already Sown

By JACK HUTTON

Several thousand students have already failed their school year.

Just as surely as if someone had rapped a gavel and pronounced the verdict.

The seeds of failure have already been sown, although only a few school days have passed, hardly enough time to get pencils sharpened.

The same is that possibly one out of every two potential failures could avoid next spring's tragedy. The guidance director of one of Canada's largest secondary schools summed it up for us this way:

"I'm convinced that most of my students who get into trouble do so during the first weeks, and not after Christmas, as they apparently believe.

The pattern is set during that first crucial month. Why bother to file any notes. There's plenty of time!"

The statistics of failure? "Two out of every 10 students in Grade 9 or 10 won't make the grade. That's only a rough average, but a fairly accurate," he said.

He shuffled through papers on his desk. "No names, please, but I'm looking at my records for a 16-year-old girl in Grade 11. Very sharp. She's a leader in a way, always making her own gang laugh. Great sense of humor.

"There's just one thing wrong," he said. "And it can be stated in one word: Attitude. She knows she can pass with ease. Why start studying now? Since 80 per cent pass, she'll aim at the lower part of this group.

Crippling Effects

"And do you know what?" he asked. "The odds are that this bright girl will fall behind her own standard, a standard lower than one she knows very well she could accomplish.

"The result is that other students who couldn't hold a candle to her pass while she doesn't. Imagine the crippling effects of limitations that she has placed on herself!"

His suggestions? Whether or not you use them now, clip them out. I only wish I'd followed them, and I'll tell

Candidate After Chief

The latest Saanich reeveship candidate says he will try to have Fire Chief Joseph Sutherland replaced as soon as possible.

"I'll do anything in my power to get him out," says Lewis Adrian Haut, 920 Jasmine, who filed nomination papers on Monday, referring to the contentious appointment.

Mr. Haut, a chauffeur for HMC Dockyard, says he has lived in Saanich all his life—43 years—"and I am running because I feel there's a need for someone who knows Saanich well."

Mr. Haut said he would work to have motorcycle police patrols brought back to Saanich, and would strive for complete implementation of Archer report recommendations for the Saanich police department.

MANAGER?

He said he would also like to see Saanich have a city manager to help reorganize municipal government machinery.

He is married and has three children.

His entry into the reeveship race for the October 24 by-election means there are three definite reeveship candidates—himself, Coun. Hugh Curtis and motel owner Ed Lum.

City Ald. Millard Mooney has said he may run.

City auto salesman Erling Olson, 824 Royal Oak Avenue, has announced he will run for council at the same by-election, saying he wants to hold the tax line and ease the tax burden by encouraging industry to locate in Saanich.

Four other candidates—Donald Mathison, William Campbell, Edward Ball and Lt.-Col. Harry Shergold—have announced they will seek the same council job. Deadline for nominations is October 14, at noon.

WEEK'S VISIT to Austria will start by President Sukarno of Indonesia Saturday when he arrives in Vienna.

Rites Friday For Legion Organizer

Funeral service for First World War veteran William Alsdorf will be held Friday at 2:15 p.m. in the Thomson and Irving funeral chapel.

Mr. Alsdorf was a member of the Canadian Scottish Regiment and was the first man to return to Calgary after the war. Born in Singapore in 1877, he came to Canada as a young man, and in post war years was instrumental in the inauguration of several Royal Canadian Legions.

Mr. Alsdorf moved west when he was appointed Western Inspector and supervisor of the Pension Board. He was later made general inspector.

DIED TUESDAY

—Since 1935 he has resided at Cobble Hill and Victoria. He died Tuesday in the Veterans' Hospital.

Following a Legion funeral he will be buried in the Veterans' Cemetery.

He is survived by the widow, Iris, 206 Robert Street; a son, William, of Victoria, and a daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Fitzmartin of Seattle.

New Grant Formula To Cripple Saanich

Only eight men in Saanich could be hired for municipal winter works and quality for provincial financial assistance, says a report by municipal engineer Neville Life.

Even accepting a relatively low efficiency, only an estimated 30 from the entire Greater Victoria area may be worth hiring, says the report.

It also says that if this provincial winter-works ruling had been applied last winter, Saanich would have had about a quarter of the provincial assistance it did.

The report was prepared by Mr. Life for the municipal public works committee at the request of council.

Councillors wanted to know what effect on the municipality would result from the government's ruling that it will now give winter works assistance only when the men hired have been on welfare for three months.

FORMER PLAN

In former years, the provincial government paid a quarter of the wages of men on winter work who were unemployed when hired through the National Employment Service.

It also paid half the wages of men who had been on welfare three months when hired.

The second ruling is still in Tin Roof Towns Spoil Harbors In N. Saanich?

Government regulations to control the construction of boathouses at marinas was advocated by a North Saanich resident at a public hearing Tuesday.

Gilbert Montgomery, Swartz Bay Road, predicted that the harbors of North Saanich would soon be covered with "masses of tin roofs" if something is not done to control the erection of marine boat-houses.

The hearing was held to consider a Capital City Yacht Club application for permission to establish a marina in Blue Heron Basin at Shoal Harbor. The hearing was held in North Saanich Secondary School.

Mr. Montgomery said there would be less public opposition to marinas if there were some restrictions to control boathouses.

"The reason why there is no opposition to the Oak Bay and Royal Victoria Yacht Club marinas is because there are no boathouses," he pointed out.

Gerald A. Neely, representing the club, said the basin, a mud flat at low tide, would be dredged to provide a larger shelter for boats in the area.

"The dredging would improve the basin," he said. "It would also permit sewage waste to flow more easily out of the harbor."

Several residents opposed the application on the grounds the marina would devalue surrounding property values.

They also feared that an increasing number of boats in the basin would aggravate the pollution problem.

Mrs. Ray Joy noted that the basin was a federal government bird sanctuary and the development would tend to drive away many rare species of birds.

The application was taken under consideration.

3,000 Homes Burned As India Reds Fight

By RUKMINI DEVI

Canadian Press Correspondent
BOMBAY (CP)—While Peking and Moscow intensify their wordy warfare, their followers in India are literally fighting it out in the streets.

Home Minister Gulzarilal Nanda has urged provincial administrations to beware of serious trouble between the Peking and Moscow factions in the Communist party of India.

News reports say provincial governments have sent fresh police reinforcements to towns where factional in-fighting in the party now has taken the form of violent street brawls.

The most serious of the incidents have taken place in the big south Indian town of Vijayawada, unofficial headquarters of the party's left (pro-Peking) faction.

HOUSES BURNED

Some 3,000 houses belonging to members of the pro-Moscow faction have been burned down. About 15,000 persons are homeless. Chief Minister Brahmananda Reddy of the Andhra state government has said that it is a case of arson and charged the left faction with setting fire to the houses of their ideological enemies.

The fires were preceded by threats in Jana Shakti, the pro-Peking Communist newspaper, that "Khrushchev's stooges should take care of their belongings."

Visalandra, mouthpiece of the pro-Moscow faction in Vijayawada, also spoke of "retribution against Mao's hirelings."

BOTH INVOLVED

Police said it appeared that followers of both the factions are involved in the arson.

Chief Minister Reddy said the bulk of the sufferers are innocent citizens who do not know anything about the Peking-Moscow struggle and care nothing about the controversy between the two Communist countries.

Nine Vijayawada Communists have been charged with arson and rioting. They include Tammina Potharaju, a member of the Andhra state legislature.

Some 1,500 miles north of Vijayawada, Communists in Lucknow fought in the streets trying to take possession of the local party bookshop.

ELECTED president of the B.C. Hospitals' Association at the annual convention in Vancouver recently was E. C. Cooley (left), trustee of Campbell River General Hospital. Twin Cities' Merger Still Far in the Future

Amalgamation of the Alberni is still almost four years away despite the fact a vote will be taken on the issue next month. That's the opinion of Port Alberni Mayor Les Hammer. He explained: "It will be 1968 before amalgamation finally takes. And even then the effects of this move won't be felt immediately."

Assuming amalgamation is favored—and things look that way at the moment—an interim joint council will be set up on November 1, 1967.

This council would comprise three aldermen from Port Alberni, three from Alberni, chosen from the ranks of the existing councils.

Whoever is mayor of Port Alberni at the time would act as mayor.

On January 1, 1968, prospective candidates for the first full council of the City of Port Alberni (as the amalgamated city would be known) would be chosen by the voters.

This council would be the original size, comprising six aldermen and a mayor.

Main reason of the delay in amalgamating said Mayor Hammer is industrial taxation.

Just 18 years ago Port Alberni gave a 20-year tax concession to all industries in the municipality to encourage expansion.

They feel they are entitled to at least two years—1966 to '68—to get the benefits when this concession ends.

Alberni, which has virtually no industry, agreed to the waiting period.

Meanwhile, the twin-cities will work together in the field of planning and other projects which affect both, with a view to amalgamation.

Dangerous Game

GANGES—RCMP here are up the pole trying to find some boys who climbed a 200-foot micro-wave tower on Mount Bruce.

By the time police arrived at the scene, the youths had shinned down again and escaped.

A spokesman for B.C. Telephone Co. said there was possibility of widespread disturbance to broadcasting as the result of such acts.

BASHED BEAR BEATS IT

NANAIMO (CP) — Nobody won in a race between a bear and a car reported here Wednesday.

But the bear came out of the contest in better shape than the car.

Highways engineer John Morris, who saw the epic race near Duncan end in a dead heat, said the bear was crossing the road as the car was coming along.

Both driver and bear tried to beat each other to the punch.

The result was one unconscious bear and one bashed car.

Morris said the bear got up, shook its head and ambled off into the bush. The unidentified driver shook his head and drove his damaged car away.

ISLAND ROUNDUP

West Coast Wants National Marine Park

NANAIMO (CP) — Tofino Chamber of Commerce will ask the federal government to establish a national marine park on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Dr. H. R. McDiarmid of Tofino told the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island Wednesday the area would be ideal for such a park.

"It has long sandy beaches, access to Tofino Inlet which offers more than 200 miles of protected waterway, a good airport and access roads," he said.

Northern Affairs Minister Art Laing said recently he would be interested to see a national marine park developed.

NANAIMO (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell said Tuesday the projected growth of British Columbia will require better administration machinery.

"We cannot endure the growth of B.C. with existing machinery," he told the 14th annual conference of the B.C. association of assessors here.

GANGES—A friendship tea will be held next Thursday in the Parish Hall here by Salt Spring Island Anglican Women's Auxiliary.

Funds from the tea will go to the church furnace account and to sewing and doreas conveners.

DUNCAN — Wanted—dolls, by Cowichan Christmas Cheer Fund.

The fund wants discarded dolls to renovate for needy children.

Already several organizations, particularly old age pensioners, have renewed and dressed all dolls previously donated.

People with dolls should send them to Van T. Shindler, Cowichan.

Arthur Mayse

Fishing hadn't been too hot in the reach between Kihushan Point and the Iron River breakwater, but the pleasant American couple camped next door managed to hang at least one coho each time they took a boat out.

After three unrewarding days during which the salmon ignored everything we could trail through their feeding ground, I decided that if we were to give the smoke-house any trade, we'd better ask Jim and Gail Rankin for their recipe.

"We've been mooching," Jim told us, half-apologetically. "We run up past the point where we'll be clear of the other boats, and mooch with minnows or plugged herring."

We were pretty vague about this drift-fishing technique, although we knew it was used effectively at Cowichan Bay and a few other spots where salmon congregate.

But except to bounce a herring rig off the bottom a casual time or two, we'd never investigated a form of angling that seemed dull and slightly disreputable, to be indulged in furtively, if at all.

The rig was simple: a keel-shaped sinker weighing two ounces, fitted with a chain swivel at each end; a five-foot leader of light monofilament; and two shiny steelhead hooks. The bottom hook was secured to the end of the leader, the top one fixed so it could be slid on the nylon to accommodate baits of any size.

In the shallow little bay north of Kihushan's tide-crinkled shores, I killed the motor and set out to "plug" a six-inch herring from a package of frozen coho-chow.

Beholden on a 60-degree slant toward the tail and with its internal machinery consigned to a handy seagull, the herring was a bait to be admired.

I hooked it up as Jim Rankin had showed me... first the lower hook, then the top one pulled through the cut and snicked into the skin so that points and barbs emerged... and tossed the rig overboard.

The sinker thumped bottom in about 30 feet of water. It went bumpety-bump over the sand and through the eel-grass, towed by a boat drifting in a two-knot tide.

Something pulled. I winched a pop-eyed and highly surprised rockfish to the surface, freed the hooks from his silly face and released him with a warning. Then I plugged another herring and dispatched it to the bottom.

Nothing bothered it... not even a dogfish.

Occasionally, following instructions, I gave the rod an upward sweep. Off the sunken barge, something fetched the bait a powder-puff tap. I yanked back, but my visitant had gone.

The sun edged out from a cloudbank. I recovered a magazine from the bows and leafed through it, munching on pilot bread. When I happened to think of it, I raised and lowered the mooching gear.

From the corner of my eye, I saw the tip of the untended rod flip sharply. The reel stammered out a yard of line, then was silent. Doesn't much fancy.

Cod? Maybe, but that gambit hinted of bigger game. I stuck the magazine under a seat, reeled in a mangled bait, and sent down a fresh one.

On the second gentle lift, something ticked it. I waited, and the line began to move with leisured deliberation against the tide. There was a sharp pluck, much like the nip a stream trout takes at a fly he doesn't much fancy.

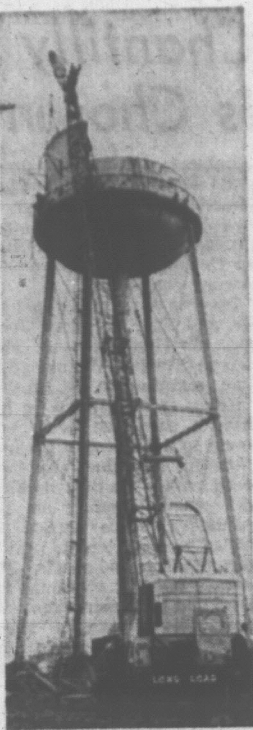

I tweaked back... felt weight and authoritative resistance... then a husky coho was sizzling off on a run that ended in a spectacular display of tail-dancing 200 feet away.

I boated him after a brisk session, hooked and lost a heavier salmon that could have been a spring, then putted back to camp, fatuously pleased with myself.

Mooching doesn't fit well where boats must plod in traffic lanes. But, try this lazy man's fishing—some time where the elbow room is ample. Disreputable or not, you may find it a pleasant relief from conventional salmon trolling.

LOST IDENTITY

False Front For Tourists Condemned

The battle for tourist business is robbing many European cities of their true character, says Rev. J. L. W. McLean, DD, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Back in Victoria after an extensive tour of Europe, Dr. McLean says many cities are putting up a tourist "front" that is often insincere.

"This is also true of many of our Canadian cities," he said. "Tourism is growing everywhere and, in the quest for the tourist dollar, we are in danger of obscuring our true identity."

"BALLY-HOO"
For that reason, Dr. and Mrs. McLean did not visit Shakespeare's birthplace at Stratford-on-Avon. They were advised that every conceivable type of "bally-hoo" was being used to capitalize on the bard's 400th birthday.

"Similar conditions prevail in many cities of Europe," Dr. McLean said. "It is understandable from the business viewpoint but regrettable in other ways."

Dr. McLean was chiefly occupied with church work in Europe. He attended meetings of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland in Edinburgh; the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Belfast, Ireland; and meetings of the World Presbyterian Alliance in Frankfurt, Germany.

UNITY IN FOREFRONT

"At all these meetings the desire for Christian unity was in the foreground, but there is no illusion anywhere that denominational barriers can be easily got rid of."

"The move towards Christian unity is more in the nature of free discussion and increased mutual respect between church leaders. And there are more inter-church meetings today than ever before."

No Accident No Excuse

John F. Melody, 650 Earlson, was sentenced today in city police court to 20 days in jail for impaired driving.

It was his second conviction. His lawyer asked Magistrate William Ostler to consider in mitigation the fact that Melody was involved in no accident.

He suggested that Melody's driving was not erratic, and that his having drunk alcohol had not made him a bad driver even though a breathalyzer test indicated he was impaired.

"In an emergency, the ability to act would not be there," said the magistrate.

GREW WITH VICTORIA

Shipping Line Marking 125th Birthday

The Royal Mail Lines, which has been serving Victoria, Vancouver and other Pacific ports since 1920, will mark its 125th anniversary this month.

A royal charter dated Sept. 26, 1839, was granted to the company by Queen Victoria for conveyance of mail to and from Great Britain, the West Indies, North and South America and other foreign ports.

The company was organized under the name of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company and was re-organized in the early '30s as Royal Mail Lines Ltd.

During its 125 years the company has owned 252 ships which

1962 Accident Took Two Lives

Eight people sought heavy damages in B.C. Supreme Court here today because of an accident near Goldstream Park two years ago in which two Victoria longshoremen were killed.

Killed instantly were Gunnar Isomaa, 44, of 3942 Braefoot, and George Weaver, 37, of 1222 Goldstream. They were driving north in Isomaa's car when it crashed head-on into a car occupied by two families from Seattle at about 6:30 p.m. on Dec. 30, 1962.

Both families claim extensive but unspecified damages because of severe injuries. Defendant in the action is Mrs. Anne M. Isomaa, widow of Gunnar Isomaa, who is named as administratrix of his estate.

Third party in the case is the Zurich Insurance Co.

'HIGH SPEED'

Victoria lawyer Patrick J. Sinnott said Gunnar Isomaa was driving his car at "a great rate of speed" in a dangerous and unlawful manner.

He said the car "veered into the path" of an oncoming car driven by Lt.-Cmdr. Warrior and caused a head-on collision.

Lt.-Cmdr. Warrior's car was completely demolished, counsel said, and he claimed $3,100 for the loss of it.

He also asked general damages for pain and suffering resulting from chest and leg injuries, concussion and nervous debility and special damages for hospitalization, medical treatment and damage to clothing, spectacles and traveling expenses between Seattle and Victoria.

Mrs. Wanda Lea Warrior asked general damages for grievous bodily injuries, including a broken jaw, spinal and facial injuries, concussion, neurasthenic debility and permanent injuries; and special damages for hospitalization, medical treatment and travelling expenses.

Their daughter Kimberlee: damages resulting from a broken nose, shoulder and multiple injuries, concussion, and permanent nervous and physical disability; and special damages for hospitalization and medical treatment.

EYE INJURIES

Kevin Warrior: general damages from eye injuries and facial cuts necessitating plastic surgery; double vision, concussion, nervous shock and after-effects; special damages for hospitalization and medical treatment, loss of spectacles and continuing expenses.

Kristan Warrior: general damages for concussion, injuries to forehead, nervous after-effects and permanent debility resulting from concussion and shock; special damages for hospitalization and medical treatment.

Earl Kenyon of Seattle claimed general damages for a broken jaw, scrambled teeth, facial and head injuries, concussion, multiple injuries and permanent disability; and special damages continuing.

His wife, Angela: general damages for loss of her left eye, severe concussion, injuries to left leg and nervous disability; special damages still continuing.

Their daughter, Laura: general damages for concussion, bruises, abrasion and nervous shock and special damages continuing.

Times photographer Bill Halkett identified photos which he took after the accident occurred and these were entered as exhibits in the case.

The hearing continued this afternoon.

MOST RAIN IN 46 DAYS SOAKS CITY

Victorians Wednesday and early today experienced the heaviest rainfall in 46 days as .33 inches fell on the city during a 24-hour period. This brought the three-day total to .54 inches.

UNDERGOING final sea trials today in Vancouver waters is Pacific Venture, soon to become newest addition to west coast fishing fleet. The large seiner will be delivered to Prince Rupert Co-op over weekend. She was formally a USN minesweeper and later became a towboat. Conversion to fishboat was completed recently by McKay-Cormac Ltd. of Victoria. Chief rigging feature is quadrapod mast on after-deck for easy handling of nets and equipment. Protest Gets No Action

Three cups of coffee have sustained stonemason Gert Larsen since his last food—a bowl of cornflakes—Tuesday morning.

In his campaign for consideration by Workmen's Compensation Board he has squatted on the steps of the Legislature since Tuesday afternoon, shunning offers of food, accommodation or even blankets in which to wrap himself during the shivering nights.

Today he hopes to see Attorney-General Robert Bonner, if Mr. Bonner gets back to Victoria in time after attending meetings on the mainland.

IN THE MARKET for an over-size trophy case is Scottish dancer Angus McKenzie, 18, of 1912 Allenby Street, who has another half dozen at home after cleaning up on western regional highland games circuit this summer. Angus' last win was Western U.S. open highland dancing championship in San Francisco on Labor Day. He also holds western North American and Pacific International open titles. Gigantic trophy he is holding came from Penticton Highland Games. Angus, a Grade 12 student at Oak Bay high school, hopes to compete in Edinburgh festival and Cowal and Braemar gatherings in Scotland next summer. He is a student of Adeline Duncan Studio.

Driver Injured When Car Flips In 3-Way Crash

A spectacular three-car collision at Cook and Haultain this morning resulted in only one injury.

Hugh Ross, 1443 Jamaica, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital and treated for head abrasions.

Police said Mr. Ross was driving north on Cook at about 8:45 when his car was in collision with one driven east along Haultain by John Sykes, 2846 Craigowan.

The Ross car skidded out of control and collided with one driven west on Haultain by Wu Kam Hung, 2661 Capital Heights. It then skidded another 60 feet into a power pole.

He saw labor department counsel Leo A. Stadnyk Wednesday and Mr. Stadnyk was among those who offered food and a place to stay, finally bringing blankets, which remained unused.

He is grateful for the offers, but feels people can do more good by writing or wiring Mr. Bonner.

Fewer Victorians will have a vote in December's civic elections than last year unless they remember to register or confirm their franchise, returning officer Frank Hunter warned today.

"The response to both new registrations and confirmations is very meagre and there is less than two weeks left," he said.

The voters list closes at 5 p.m. Sept. 30 and anyone whose name is not in it by then will not have a ballot in December.

Time for watching the stars will be 8 to 10 p.m. Saturday nights until the end of November, says the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain.

Time during the summer has been 9 to 11 p.m. Observing will be discontinued from the end of November to the first Saturday in April because of weather.

Police have a clue to the identity of the phantom truck driver—he left a note.

A spokesman for Stocker's Security Storage, 776 Topaz, told city police some of the company's trucks had been driven on the weekend.

Ignitions had been tampered with, and keys left in the trucks had been thrown out.

In the cab of one truck was a note: "Your trucks are very easy to drive."

The handwriting is being investigated.

Officers of St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society will be installed tonight at 8 at a meeting at Holyrood House.

A stockpile of antique china was stolen from a basement storage room in the last month, city police were told Wednesday by B. Arnold, 2114 Neil.

Mr. Arnold said he had the china stored at 140 Douglas.

Missing are five cut crystal glasses, five egg cups, four tea cups, seven saucers and a gravy boat, all of Limoges china. Total value is about $45.

PUC May Not Hear Municipal Arguments

Emergency Caucus Set In Bus Fare Protest

Acting Mayor M. H. Mooney and city solicitor T. P. O'Grady flew to Vancouver today for an emergency caucus in the bus fare fight.

They were airborne soon after hearing that their side of the case against fare increases may not be heard.

Dr. H. F. Angus, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission which adjourned hearings in Vancouver Wednesday on the B.C. Hydro application for a 25-cent cash fare, issued the warning. It came after he was told that the municipalities may need until mid-November to present their case.

"There is a question as to whether the commission should act on insufficient information if sufficient information takes too long to get," he said.

WAIT UNTIL MONDAY

Dr. Angus said he would reserve action until Monday when the hearings resume in Victoria.

D. M. Goldie, representing 10 Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver municipalities opposed to the fare increase, said he would know better by Monday exactly how long will be needed by the municipalities.

He conducted an exhaustive cross-examination of B.C. Hydro officials for three days in the Vancouver hearings seeking technical details which will be analyzed by a Philadelphia firm of transit experts retained by the municipalities.

Dr. Angus' warning that he may not wait for the municipal counter-brief/undoubtedly was the reason for the sudden meeting called by Vancouver Mayor William Rathie.

Ald. Mooney attended the caucus as a substitute for Mayor R. B. Wilson, co-chairman of the joint civic committee, who is in eastern Canada.

Result of the deliberations were not expected to be known until the bus fare hearings reopen in the Law Courts building here Monday morning.

SCHOOLS COUNTING RIDERS

Detailed information on use of transit buses by school pupils will be presented in a Greater Victoria school board brief to the Public Utilities Commission Monday.

A questionnaire seeking transit information is in the hands of school principals and has started to come back to district officials.

Trustee Peter Bunn said today that estimated bus use figures have so far been borne out by answers to the questionnaire.

The board asked such questions as how many pupils use transit buses; how many ride at their own expense; how many use buses in connection with extra-curricular activities.

PATTERN SEEN

It has been found, he said, there is a pattern of use discernable at the junior and senior secondary school level.

At this level the school pupil tends to take part in activities held away from his own school, at sports meets, public library, arenas and auditoriums.

The submission is being made to oppose a proposed bus fare hike to 25 cents, representing nearly 100 per cent on the adult rate.

TOPICS of the DAY

Boys of 14 to 18 years of age who are interested in becoming sea cadets will have an opportunity Friday evening to see a corps in action.

Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Rainbow will hold an "open house" during their parade night, beginning at 7 p.m. The local corps is housed in the Navy League of Canada's headquarters, "Rainbow," based at the front of Robert Street.

Following the parade, the guests will be served refreshments on the upper deck.

Commander William H. I. Atkinson, commanding officer of HMCS Venture, officer cadet training establishment at HMC Dockyard, has been appointed RCN representative on Greater Victoria United Appeal.

The Pacific Command coordinator for the 1964 drive for funds will be assisted by Lt.-Cmdr. A. G. Murray and Lt.-Cmdr. D. A. Avery.

Results of Tuesday's bridge play conducted by Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club: Section A—Les Stewart and Jack Goldie, first; Gwen Graham and Art Millions, second; Ricki Nickless and Paul Smith, third; Hilda Price and Laura Tingley, fourth, and Liz Warren and Les Isaacson, fifth.

Section B—Fran Champion and George Morgan, first; Dora and Jim Duprau, second; Marjorie Mulcahy and Muriel Bolton, third; Marjorie Crookston and Molly Collins, fourth, and Phil Hagel and Pat Bishop, fifth.

DEAR ABBY . . .

What Big White Teeth

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I pulled out of the parking lot behind a supermarket too quickly, and I almost ran over a man who was walking toward his car with a large sack of groceries. He dropped the sack and a carton of eggs went ker-plunk! I said, "Oh, I'm so sorry—I hope your wife doesn't break your neck." He smiled and said, "No harm done, Madame, and besides, I have no wife."

I don't know why, but I quickly replied, "That's a coincidence. I have no husband." (I am a widow.) Then he grinned broadly, revealing the most beautiful even white teeth I've ever seen, and he tipped his hat. Abby, please don't think I'm crazy, but I haven't been able to get that man's face and voice out of my mind. I would like to see him again. But how?

LADY IN THE BLUE SEDAN: DEAR LADY: Go back to that supermarket at approximately the same time you met him there. If he has any interest in seeing you again, I'll bet you see him.

DEAR ABBY: It is appalling how few people know the art of getting along with one's neighbor. Years ago I found a method that could be used in a variety of situations.

A dentist lived next door to us. We each had large, well-cared-for yards. On weekends he would rake all his trash in a pile and push it alongside our bordering shrubs. I retaliated by adding to the pile as much as I could scrape from under my own shrubs, and pushing it directly onto his lawn. It took only two offenses on my part to cure him.

People who have nifty neighbors could use this method. It could be applied to borrowers who never pay back. And wives who get a little too cozy with other women's husbands could be taught a lesson by this retaliation trick. I have used this principle with great success for years and have suffered no loss of friends.

ELIZABETH.

DEAR ELIZABETH: Your "eye-for-an-eye and tooth-for-a-tooth" system would work very well—until you ran out of eyes and teeth. I prefer the "cheek-turning" technique, only after the forthright "come-right-out-and-tell-them" method has failed.

DEAR ABBY: About a year ago I noticed a wall between me and my husband that I could not penetrate. I don't know when it started, or why, but I could not reach him, so I turned to a single man to talk my problems over with. It ended up with this man begging me to divorce my husband and marry him. I didn't intend for it to happen this way, Abby, because I think I still love my husband. The single man is very persistent. I made my mistake when I told him I loved him, but I only did it because I was emotionally upset about my husband. How do I get out of this mess?

IN A MESS.

DEAR IN: Tell the single man that you still love your husband and you regret ever becoming involved with another man. And if the "wall" between you and your husband is still there, read the handwriting on it, and consult your clergyman or a marriage counselor for some objective and professional help.

Exclusive to the Groom —Special Gifts for You

By PENNY SAVER

In general, when we buy gifts for a wedding, we automatically think in terms of something for the bride.

So, for once, let's turn the tables and give something to the groom alone.

Stag party pals will rise a notch in his estimation when he is presented with an automatic, battery-powered clothes brush.

Priced at $3.95, brushes come in blue or black and are complete with small vacuum-style lint bag. Added feature is that this brush is also a flashlight. Switch works separately for either one.

If the groom is a hunting or fishing enthusiast, he will also appreciate one of the completely plastic flashlights that sell at $2.95.

These require two ordinary flashlight batteries and are unbreakable, unsinkable and shockproof. The plastic covering prevents dents and rust and is non-conductive.

They come with their own plastic covered case that snaps across the handle of the light. Case is large enough to carry two extra batteries. Switches on these lights are also coated with plastic for added protection.

The man who enjoys smoking but who hates the smell of stale smoke will find use for instant cigarette sniffers that are priced at $1.95 a pair.

Sniffers are made of porcelain with four separate holes that have a special substance in the bottom for sniffing the cigarette. They fit almost any size ash tray and are easily cleaned.

Add something special for the groom to the next wedding gift you buy, but first, call Penny at 382-3131 and find out where she shopped.

TODAY'S RECIPE

BORSCH
A Colorful Beet Soup
Served With Sour Cream

One-half cup chopped onion, 1 cup diced celery, 1 clove garlic (crushed); 2 tablespoons butter, ½ cup shredded carrots, 1 can (20-ounce) tomato juice, 4 cups liquid (beef stock or bouillon and juice from beets), 1 bay leaf, ¼ teaspoon marjoram, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 to 3 teaspoons sugar, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 can (20 ounce) whole beets, 1 cup sour cream.

Saute onion, celery and garlic in melted butter for five minutes. Add carrots, tomato juice, beet stock, herbs, seasonings and vinegar. Cover and simmer gently for 30 minutes. Shred beets finely, add to soup and heat to boiling point. Top with a heaping spoonful of sour cream as each portion is served. Let each guest stir in his own cream. Makes about eight cups soup.

NOTE: Borsch may be served cold, if desired.

Canada Goes Unique in Haute Couture Show

MONTREAL (CP)—Haute couture ranging from the controversial pant-suit shown this season in continental fashion houses to uniquely Canadian designs for Canadian living were shown to the press this week at the fall-winter 1964-65 collection of the Association of Canadian Couturiers.

Much of the collection came in Canadian-made fabrics.

Montreal's France Davies began the show with a series of gently fitted daytime and evening clothes in autumn shades. Two daytime costumes in terylene and wool came in combinations of hunter green and orange.

Eve Lynn of Montreal showed a series of gay one-piece jumpsuits worn with matching helmets for the young and active set. One in beige stretch nylon was designed for sports car racing. Another was a one-piece ski costume, and a third an elegant hostess pyjama costume of black terylene knit and viscose with high waistline bell-bottom trousers and jet trim.

TWEEDS AND PLAIDS

Frances Stewart of Ottawa showed town costumes in tweeds and plaids with circular collars and such interesting details as button-down sides and apron skirts. One costume in burgundy wool had a collarless coat worn over a matching dress with an enormous cowl collar.

Mario di Nardo of Montreal, in his 10th anniversary collection, showed furs for the first time. Two interesting numbers were a belted ocelot foreign-triguit coat, and a costume of black slacks and sweater covered with a tulle top of red and black southwest African pattern.

Olivia of Hamilton called her collection the "feminine mystique" and combined what she felt to be the best fashion features of the 1920s, '30s, '40s and '50s. She showed dramatic plaid coats and dresses with matching balaclavas from the 1940s.

A white satin cocktail dress came in the famous bias cut of the 1930s. Fringes provided detail from the 1920s. Padded and quilted fabrics added an interesting modern note. Highlight of the collection was a full-length evening costume in loud plaid with matching quilted coat.

Rodolphe of Toronto had a collection of unique, contemporary surprises, such as a black crepe "discotheque" dress for dancing with matching knickers. A beige wool costume which looked like a jumper and sweater had brown wool inserts in both bodice and skirt.

Raoul-Jean Fouré of Montreal, president of the Association of Canadian Couturiers, showed a number of furs, mostly in mink, and some swinging modern numbers, including a gold tweed leggings suit, tight pants had feet in them with car coat and hood, and a pant-suit of knickers, tunic top over a turtle neck sweater, and matching coat. The suit was worn with long, patterned stockings.

Reports — Mrs. Peter Bell, vice-president of the Provincial Chapter IODE and national meeting, held at Fredericton, N.B. when the Esquimaux Chapter IODE met in the Tattersall Drive home of Mrs. T. G. Clark with Mrs. C. A. Dodmeade presiding. Mrs. J. A. Brown, services at home and abroad, called for volunteers to fill hospital bags, to be sent to the North-West Territories. Sum of $15 was allotted for this project. Mrs. Clarke donated two afghans which she had knitted. These will be sent to a nursing home. Convenor, Mrs. A. W. Smith reported on coffee party, to be held at Admiral's House, HMC Dockyard, October 2. Mrs. G. P. Clarke was appointed convenor for annual IODE festival, to be held next February. Refreshments were served by the hostess and Mrs. A. C. Weightman.

Narrow jumpsuit for skiing, designed by EVE LYN for the Autumn '64 collection of the Association of Canadian Couturiers, is given "play" through the new stretch "Terylene" and Zantrel fabric from which it is made. In heavenly blue, diagonally ridged whipcord, it is worn with a high-buttoned blouse in the same color and blend, but in a smooth poplin weave. The helmet, also in blue "Terylene" and Zantrel whipcord, was designed by Irene of Montreal.

Jo-Anne Morberg Married In Brentwood Bay Church

Brentwood Bay United Church was the setting of a recent marriage uniting Jo-Anne Isabel Morberg and Eric Wayne Hamilton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Morberg, 654 Ker Avenue. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hamilton, Old West Road. Rev. C. Johnstone officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of lace over satin, featuring lily-point sleeves and scalloped hemline. She carried a bouquet of pale pink roses edged with fern and tied with a large bow. A bouffant three-tier veil misted to her shoulders from a rose tiara.

SATIN AND LACE

Matron of honor, Mrs. R. D. Adrian, wore a gown of pale pink satin topped with a lace jacket. She carried a bouquet similar to that of the bride.

R. D. Adrian was best man and K. Vickers ushered guests to their seats.

A reception followed at Brenta Lodge where the bridal table was centred with a wedding cake that was loosed in a basket-weave design and pale pink-roses. Mr. Adrian proposed the toast to the bride.

For a honeymoon trip to Vancouver and Bellingham, Wash., the bride donned a teal blue suit with brown accessories, accented with a corsage of pale peach-gold roses.

Upon return, the couple will live at 5702 Old West Saanich Road.

WA Requires New Helpers

At the first fall meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Veterans' Hospital, it was announced that new workers are needed for the hospital chapel, and that gifts of flowers for the altar will be received by Mrs. A. S. Averill, GR 7-2901.

President, Mrs. H. F. Jarvis, chaired the meeting and welcomed a new member, Mrs. E. Elliott.

Mrs. A. R. Minnis reported that a sum of $2,249.92 was realized at the Dogwood Festival in June.

It was reported by Mrs. F. T. R. Sehl, convener of dogwood pins and earrings, that more workers are needed for this work, the second major fundraising project of the auxiliary.

Mrs. Jarvis reported that 791 visits had been made to patients during the past three months and that 15 birthday parties had been held during August. Ten parties will be held this month. These parties will include patients in Section 29 as well as those in the pavilion.

During the summer a total of 1,340 books had been distributed from the library.

Election of officers for the coming year will take place at the annual meeting in October. Nominating chairman is Mrs. D. Swan.

During the summer a total of 1,340 books had been distributed from the library.

IMAGINE wearing black gloves when you handle flour! Of course, you wouldn't actually do it — but it has been done just to prove how truly amazing new FIVE ROSES MIRACLE INSTANTIZED FLOUR is! You see, it never sticks or clings — and you won't find any flour anywhere that dissolves as quickly in liquids for lump-free gravies and sauces. Nor will you find a flour that blends as readily with dry ingredients in your mixing bowl. That's because there's only one Instantized Flour — and that's Miracle. When it comes to handling (with or without gloves) — believe me, MIRACLE INSTANTIZED FLOUR has no peer.

And the special "play time" hour for the children, twice a day, when they play games and have fun. (And you can take it easy!) And babies get "tot-priority" service from CN, too, (friendly attendants will heat baby's bottle for you). Make it a family fun trip. You'll love the pampered feeling when you go Canadian National — I do!

Chantilly Lace Gown Is Chosen By Bride

Dahlias and gladioli decorated Metropolitan United Church for the marriage of Josephine Mary Johnson and George Frances Emsley. Rev. A. E. King officiated at the evening ceremony.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson, 469 Dupplin Road; Mrs. George Emsley, Winnipegosis, Man., and the late Mr. Emsley.

Entering the church on her father's arm, the bride was lovely in a full-length gown of Chantilly lace that was fashioned with a portrait neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. The fine illusion net misted to floor length from a tiara of silver and pearls. The cascade bouquet contained red roses and pink carnations. As jewelry she wore a single strand of pearls and matching drop earrings, gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by her three sisters. Miss Francis Johnson was maid of honor and the Misses Heather and Christine Johnson, flower girls.

The senior attendant's full-length gown of deep pink satin was complemented with a toning hat, white accessories and cascade bouquet of pink carnations.

The petite flower girls were gowned in nylon over lace in blue and pink respectively. Their accessories were white and they carried starburst bouquets of pink carnations.

Best man was Larry May and ushering guests were Ken Walker and Douglas Thomas.

Jim Swaine, a friend of the bride's family, proposed the toast to her happiness at the reception which followed at Norway House.

A miniature bride and groom topped the two-tier wedding cake which centred the head table. Pink and white decor was used to decorate the hall.

Special guests included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Nicholet of Victoria.

Leaving on honeymoon, the bride donned a light blue wool suit, white accessories and white carnation corsage.

After a honeymoon trip up Island, the couple are making their home at 469 Dupplin Road.

Seattle Professor Pummels Goldwater

A mild-mannered professor left his books Wednesday afternoon and delivered a scathing two-hour condemnation of presidential candidate, Senator Barry Goldwater.

Dr. Giovanni Costigan, professor of history at the University of Washington crossed the border to address the Women's Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel.

Describing the senator as a man "who even his friends dread to hear ad-libbing because of the rashness of his statements," the speaker gave his version of how the senator won the nomination of the Republican party at the San Francisco convention.

"He was supported by a small well-organized minority, not particularly scrupulous about the means in which they grabbed power."

Dr. Costigan stated Goldwater supporters were bound together "through an almost hysterical fear of communism that magnified tensions 1,000 times and saw danger where none existed."

Senator Goldwater, he said, received most of his support from Republican partisans, those poisoned with racial prejudice and members of certain misguided religious sects.

"But," Dr. Costigan warned, "all really responsible Republicans are shocked and horrified at the nomination."

The professor also took a verbal swing at the senator's choice of a running mate.

A FAILURE

"Congressman Miller was obviously chosen by Goldwater because of his extremism. At the time of the convention, Miller was almost unknown as a politician and was so great a failure as a member of Congress, he intended to resign this fall."

Dr. Costigan told of "an almost imperceptible swing in industry from the eastern seaboard to the southwest, brought about mainly through the establishment of defence industries in the west and the fabulous wealth from the production of oil."

He described Dallas as the "right wing capital of the United States" and numbered the "new Texan oil millionaires" among the senator's supporters.

"They frankly despise the east—they regard it as conservative and defeated. They hate what they call 'the Liberal establishment'—and this includes Wall Street."

Getting down to specifics, the speaker cited Senator Goldwater's stand on important foreign and national issues.

Atomic testing—"He (Goldwater) voted against the test ban treaty signed by the United States and Russia even though his party came out in favor. This shows the danger the man represents as the possible head of a nation in control of the greatest destructive power known to man. To date, the combined atomic weapons of the United States and Russia could fire off as much potential in one day as that used during the whole of the last war and continue doing so for the next 146 years."

Brinkmanship—"Dr. Costigan deplored the senator's support of 'Brinkmanship'. 'He advocates a war of nerves and the use of threats, with each side attempting to bluff the other. He ignores the fact that sooner or later there's bound to be a show-down.'"

Viet Nam—"Dr. Costigan cited the senator as being in favor of using atomic weapons on a small scale in the Asian conflict. 'Senator Goldwater would like to see the responsibility of using these weapons transferred to the hands of the military and misguidedly classifies these weapons as 'conventional'. The only bombs we dropped were on Asia and, to do so again would be to refine their belief that we consider Asians expendable, yet would not use these weapons in Europe.'"

Cuba—"Goldwater recommends an economic and military blockade, showing that he is prepared to defy both the enemy and our allies. He's also in favor of arming Cuban exiles and helping them to stage a revolt. He's never asked what sort of a government they'd set up if such a coup took place. It could be another kind of blood bath or military dictatorship."

United Nations—"Senator Goldwater, in one of his books described it as a communist-dominated organization. During the last six months he's moderated his contempt. One cannot help doubt his sincerity."

On domestic issues, Dr. Costigan showed his concern:

Civil Rights—"The senator is wholly negative on the question of civil rights, saying that 'we must enforce states' rights.' Throughout the south, these are always used to deprive negroes of their rights as human beings."

Poverty—"Senator Goldwater voted against the Poverty Bill. He has stated that 'if people are poor it's their own fault, they either lack intelligence or ambition.' It's a shameful thing that in a prosperous country like the United States there are between 30 and 40 million people who are just above the level of destitution."

Dr. Costigan told the audience that the easing of poverty "was not a matter of production, but of distribution. Automation can provide the answer, there is no reason why the whole world cannot enjoy a decent standard of living, providing resources are used wisely."

Speaker was introduced by Miss Elizabeth Forbes and thanked by Mrs. H. H. Youson.

Golfers Stay Indoors To Plan Bridge Party

Even the most ardent woman golfer at the Uplands Golf Club has other things on her mind these days as the ladies' division prepares for a bridge party, to be held on Tuesday, Sept. 29 at 1 p.m. There's talk of wheat sheaves and pumpkins as committee members work out details of the party's harvest theme.

Mrs. J. F. Dawson is general convener. Assisting her are Mrs. K. S. Lawson, Mrs. C. S. Humber, Mrs. G. Goy, Mrs. W. Herbert, Mrs. A. Sutton, Mrs. C. R. Harrell, Mrs. J. Riddell and Mrs. H. G. McWilliams.

Enthusiastic supporters are already making reservations. Among those planning to attend are Mrs. L. G. Copley, Mrs. R. Powell, Mrs. W. Herbert, Miss F. Lawrence, Mrs. C. R. Locatelli, Mrs. A. W. Flinton, Mrs. H. Vickerson, Mrs. L. R. Hall, Mrs. W. A. Craven, Mrs. B. M. Blay, Mrs. B. E. Porritt, Mrs. J. M. Drummond, Mrs. M. Kersey, Mrs. M. Worth, Mrs. H. Menzies, Mrs. E. R. Rickinson, Mrs. C. WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Restful Sleep Is Essential To Health and Happiness

Some lucky people can fall asleep with the light on, the sun in their face, or with their neighbor's radio or television blaring. These same fortunate ones, when awakened by a barking dog or a baby's cry or the snores of husband or wife, can roll over and go to sleep again with no time wasted.

Lowman

Not everyone is like this, more the pity! Some require more sleep than others and some sleep more lightly than others. Many who have no real problem with insomnia nevertheless are awakened by a squeaking door, noisy plumbing or shutters which bang. Sometimes even when you do not fully awaken the quality of your sleep may be affected by noises.

Restless, interrupted sleep can lead to fatigue. Therefore, every effort should be made to correct those conditions. Try to do something about the noises in your home. The plumbing and the squeaky door and such conditions can be remedied. I don't know what you can do about the snoring except to use some ear plugs.

In modern everyday life we are subjected to such constant noise that absolute quietude, or even semi-quietude, is a blessing. When we are in the country on an absolutely silent night we can feel our nerves relax and our tensions leave us.

Of course we cannot banish noise from our lives but we should do so as much as is possible. Draperies help cut noises from the outside and carpeting on stairs and hallways will decrease the noise inside your house.

Of course our sleeping equipment has a big effect on the quality of our sleep. Lumpy mattresses, a bed that sags in the middle, a mattress which is too soft or too hard and bed clothes which are too heavy or too light all detract from good sleep. Any one of these can ruin your sleep.

The little contraptions available for holding the covers up so that they do not pull on your feet are a comfort. Black eye pads are useful when taking a daytime nap or when the sun awakens you too early in the morning.

If you have trouble sleeping you would be wise to investigate the causes since this is the time when the body slows down, rests and makes repairs.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Shuteye" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexandre Fournier of Fort Frances, Ont., announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon Rose, to Mr. Bobby James Rentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rentz, 1613 Earle Street, Victoria. The wedding will take place on Saturday, Oct. 10, at 11 a.m., in St. Mary's Church in Fort Frances. Fr. Louis Aubin will officiate. (Photos by Campbell Studio.)

Hear Vows Exchanged at Ucluelet

Many Victoria residents recently went to Ucluelet, B.C., to hear the marriage vows of Margaret Anne Noble and Roger Christian Gudbranson.

From Victoria were Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Williams and family, Mr. and Mrs. S. Kennedy and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. MacDonald and family, Mr. and Mrs. T. Noble and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. Noble Jr. and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. Green, Mr. and Mrs. M. Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. A. Pistell, Mr. and Mrs. E. Easton, Mr. and Mrs. R. Masters and family, Mrs. K. Oliver and Margaret, Mrs. E. K. Logan and Marie, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Stonehouse, Mr. and Mrs. K. William.

Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. D. Jasper of Powell River, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Noble of Terrace, B.C.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. John Todd Noble, Ucluelet, and the late Mr. Noble and Mr. and Mrs. George Gudbranson, also of Ucluelet.

Rev. John W. Leighton officiated at the ceremony in St. Aidan's Church.

The bride's brother, Robert Noble, gave her in marriage. She wore a pure silk brocade dress of an ivory tint with lily point sleeves and fitted bodice with cummerbund which flowed into the full-length skirt of unpressed pleats. A three-tier veil of illusion net was highlighted with a scalloped edge and held in place by an ivory brocade rose.

She carried a cascade bouquet of Talisman roses, stephanotis, feathered chrysanthemums and heather.

The bride's sister, Mrs. C. A. Stonehouse, was matron of honor. She wore a rust-toned cocktail-length dress of peau de sole in a style similar to the bride's but with short sleeves.

Bridesmaids, the Misses Barbara Masters and Noreen Gudbranson, the groom's sister, chose dresses of the same style but in a lighter shade of rust. Their cascade bouquets featured rust-toned chrysanthemums with wheat sprigs.

Brother of the groom, Allan Gudbranson was best man and another brother, Harvey Gudbranson, and Shaun Whincup were ushers.

The bride's table at the reception in the Ucluelet recreation hall was centred with a three-tier wedding cake. The cake was made by the bride's mother. It was topped with ivory icing and further decorated with ivory-toned candles and marguerites. S. Kennedy, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast to her happiness.

A deep rust-toned suit of wool boucle, accented by brown accessories and a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums, centred with a sprig of wheat and tied with brown ribbons, completed the bride's going-away outfit.

After the honeymoon trip to the interior of B.C., the couple will live on Long Beach Road in Ucluelet.

FRONTIERS OF SCIENCE

IT IS ONLY ACCIDENTAL THAT LIFE

HAD A SPACESHIP ON WHICH TO EVOLVE, WITH NIGHTS AND DAYS, AND

ON WHICH OCEANS COULD EXIST.

IN CAPTURED ROTATION THE EARTH

WILL HAVE A "DAY" SIDE BENEATH

A "NIGHT" SIDE WITH TEMPERATURES

FAR BELOW OUR PRESENT SOUTH POLE

— TOO COLD FOR LIFE.

WHEN THE EARTH STANDS STILL - Part 4

IF THE EARTH'S SPIN HAD STOPPED, LIFE COULD HAVE EVOLVED ONLY

IN THE "TWILIGHT BAND" CONNECTING THE FROZEN NIGHT SIDE TO THE SCORCHED DAY SIDE.

RUNNING RIGHT AROUND THE EARTH, THROUGH THE NORTH AND SOUTH

POLES AND ABOUT 1500 MILES WIDE, THIS BAND WOULD HAVE RIVERS

FORMED BY MELTING ICE FROM THE DARK SIDE.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

All that hocus pocus isn't going to make Bewitched my cup of brew this season.

The half-hour comedy stars Elizabeth Montgomery, Dick York and Agnes Moorehead in a series dealing with a young advertising executive who discovers he has married a lovely witch with supernatural powers.

Miss Montgomery (Samantha) would rather with than fight but the abracadabra element isn't the formula for success.

The whole series will need a lot more than an occasional appearance of Miss Moorehead as a truly believable witch and the odd comic antic of Mr. York.

They may be Bewitched but I'm bothered and bewildered by the reason for it all.

Stephen

There's an old saw that you can't keep a good man down. Reliable, breezy Walter Brennan proved it again with his new comedy situation series, The Tycoon, about an individualistic board chairman of a business firm who believes in the Horatio Alger theme.

In the opener Brennan went out to prove he could make a fortune in a half-hour with only a pocketful of $10 bills.

He did, though it will take a mighty lot of convincing that this series will reach the pinnacle achieved by his last effort in The Real McCoys.

Brigitte Bardot, who has spurned U.S. television until now, has agreed to star in an hour-long show.

Martin Goodman Productions has acquired the rights from the French actress. She will not be a tour guide in the style of telecasts made by other big film names, but she will perform, singing four numbers and dancing.

Mr. Goodman said the show would be filmed at Miss Bardot's home in St. Tropez and in Paris. Some of the production numbers have been recorded. There has been no agreement as yet about a sponsor or a spot for the show on CBS-TV.

TIDBITS: NBC-TV will air a one-hour memorial broadcast on the first anniversary of the assassination of President Kennedy Nov. 22.

Peter Sellers will star on ABC-TV in the first of six network specials dramatizing the work of the United Nations; the 90-minute program is tentatively scheduled for Christmas week, with Rod Serling as the writer and other performers, including Christopher Plummer, Eva Marie Saint and Sterling Hayden.

Manning Voices Alarm On Morality Decline

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Manning told the Edmonton Evangelical Ministerial Association Wednesday that he has noticed a progressive decline in standards of morality.

"In my nearly 20 years of public life I have become more and more concerned with evidence that individual and national morality levels have declined progressively," Mr. Manning said in a speech to the association's meeting.

He called for a "genuine spiritual recovery" and said that churches now drifting off to preach social gospels instead of the word of God should stick to the Bible.

Meanwhile, the association said it would oppose a proposal that would allow paid sporting events on Sundays in Edmonton. Sunday sport, the association said, would make Sunday just another working day.

A plebiscite on the proposal will be held Oct. 14.

In an interview earlier, the premier denied a charge by Neil Reimer, leader of the Alberta New Democratic Party, that his Social Credit cabinet is "riddled with dissension and concern."

"The cabinet is completely harmonious and works together as a team. I would say there's no other cabinet in Canada that works as well," he said.

Neutral Tribunal For WCB Appeals

VANCOUVER (CP)—Robert Strachan, provincial leader of the New Democratic party, said Monday an independent and impartial tribunal should be established to hear appeals on Workmen's Compensation Board decisions.

The Opposition leader said this would eliminate "pension psychosis," a claimant's feeling that justice had not been done. Mr. Strachan made his remarks as the first witness in a long list of lawyers and citizens who will make submissions during the next three weeks to the royal commission inquiring into the operations of the province's Compensation Act.

FLIGHT FROM ASHIYA

Capitol Theatre

Episodic in form, this unpretentious melodrama tells the story of three members of the U.S. Air Rescue Service in a series of flash-backs. Not a deep film, it is nevertheless competently handled and sufficiently realistic to hold attention.

Adapted from a novel by Elliott Arnold, the story is in effect a tribute to the Air Rescue Service which was born out of the war and has as its motto "That others may live."

The three airmen—Richard Widmark, George Chakiris and Yul Brynner—are assigned to the rescue of survivors of a Japanese cargo vessel which has been caught in a typhoon.

As they head out to sea, the first of the flash-backs is unfolded. Chakiris is unhappy over a mistake which caused the death of a party of survivors from an avalanche. Widmark is haunted by the death of his wife in a Japanese war camp and tries with difficulty to stifle a racial antagonism.

Yul Brynner, supposedly the son of a Japanese father and an American mother, recalls a tragic love affair with an Algerian girl (Danielle Gaubert). Chakiris re-lives an idyllic romance with a Japanese girl (Elko Taki).

The patchwork of memories is woven into the developing narrative with fairly successful results and the camera work is dramatically effective without being in any way profound.

Widmark's prejudice against the Japanese seems a little superficial since his wife's death was caused by lack of medical supplies rather than neglect by her captors, and I had the feeling he was not entirely convinced by the role.

The screen play by Elliott Arnold and Waldo Salt covers a broad canvas and there are some tender moments and a little light relief when the men of Air Rescue are not pre-occupied with storms, hurricanes and avalanches.

As an adventure story, this is first-rate entertainment; as a psychological study it doesn't go very deep.

Wide Range of Topics In Extension Lectures

Subjects ranging from the Communist ideological conflict to child psychology are among 10 titles in the University Extension Association's 1964-65 program opening September 28.

Association president R. I. Simms announced the 41st series today. It includes topics of current significance in human relations, education, science and art.

Robin Skelton, University of Victoria English instructor, art critic and Times columnist, opens the season with a lecture on "The Poet's Task."

On October 19, University of British Columbia political scientist Dr. Ivan Avakumovic will speak on "Sino-Soviet Dispute."

Ideological Positions of USSR and China.

Uvic president Dr. Malcolm Taylor speaks November 2 on "The New University," and on November 16 UBC music department head Dr. G. Welton Marquis will give an illustrated talk on "Music in Twentieth Century Society."

The winter section ends December 7 with a talk by Uvic education faculty instructor Donald Harvey, on "The Subject in Painting."

The spring section starts on January 11, with "International Rivalries in Southeast Asia," by William L. Holland, head of the UBC department of Asian studies.

"The Trivarsity Era in British Columbia" will be the subject of Dr. Patrick McTaggart-Cowan, president of Simon Fraser University, February 1, and on February 22 Dr. S. A. Jennings, Uvic mathematics department head, will talk on "Abstraction Versus Application: Comments on the Changing Role of Mathematics."

The March lectures will be "Problems of Neuropsychology With Adults and Children," by Uvic psychology department head Dr. William Gaddes, on the 15th, and "The Scientific Method at Work," March 29, by Dr. Neil Bartlett, award-winning member of the UBC chemistry department.

Anyone interested in any of the subjects is invited to attend, and membership cards for regular patrons may be obtained at the door of Lansdowne Auditorium, where the series will be held, or Victoria Public Library.

Mum Display Highlights Garden Show

A large exhibition of chrysanthemums will be one of several feature attractions at the Gordon Head Garden Club show to be held in the community hall, Tyndall Avenue, Saturday.

The show will be open from 2 to 9 p.m. Door prizes will be drawn every hour. In the evening, trophies will be presented to the winners of various classes by Archdeacon A. E. Hendy.

Show officials said all entries should be in the hands of Mrs. Arthur Whitaker, 2224 Edgemoor, not later than 6 p.m. Friday.

Don Crawford Pleases Again With His Songs

By LES MILLIN

Don Crawford may have broken his back, but everything else seems to be in place. The big San Francisco folk singer is back in Victoria, for a visit to the Secret coffee house, and his act—as usual—is excellent.

The vertebrae he smashed in that car accident doesn't seem to have slowed him down.

But it's unfortunate that the sound system in the club is turned up so high, because that powerful voice becomes almost oppressive under too much amplification.

ACT CHANGES

Crawford's act changes from set to set, and the songs he was putting over early this week were partly new, partly refined from material he used earlier this year, and all very entertaining.

He seems to have softened his approach to the racial situation—Don is a Negro—that figured so strongly in his previous work.

But in place of some of the brisk, funny and slicing patter he used between songs, he has taken up songs like Hey Jenny, Jenny that spell out his feelings on racialism just as succinctly.

(That song, curiously enough, was written by Shel Silverstein, the bearded artist who draws cartoons for Playboy. It's one of three Civil War-type songs Don does.)

He still does children's songs—like Birds—and such bluesy things as his version of Bob Dylan's Don't Think Twice.

It may be heresy, but I think he does that one better than Dylan, no matter who wrote it.

Don also sings the one about the chap who came home and found the horse in the stable where his horse ought to be, and so on.

It's a diverse feast to listen to him, and enough to make one thankful that his announced retirement from the entertainment world has been postponed once or twice.

But something ought to be done about that sound system.

Rebuilt Hospital For Chinese Back In Service

The provincial government today flashed the green light for resumption of service by the Chinese Hospital at 555 Herald.

Extensive renovations to the hospital were completed recently while the patients were accommodated at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

A. H. Rose, inspector of hospitals, informed City Hall, which owns the land, and the Chinese Community Hospital Society of Victoria, which carried out the $30,000 renovation, that a new licence has been issued for a 21-bed capacity institution and the patients could be transferred back from Royal Jubilee.

Riding Season Ends With Show

The Vancouver Island Horsemen's Council winds up its 1964 season of shows this weekend with a two-day championship event at Saanichton Fair Grounds.

There will be riders and horses from all parts of the Island competing in 31 open and junior events, and at the end of the contests total points for the year will be compiled and individual champions announced.

The show will start Saturday at 1 p.m. and 11 events will be run off during the afternoon. It will resume Sunday at 9 a.m. and will continue through the day with 20 more events.

ENTRIES CLOSING

Entries are closing today with the show secretary, Mrs. Heather Rimmer, 641 Happy Valley Road, Metchosin. A double entry fee will be charged late comers.

Judge of the two-day event will be Bob Shanks and ring master will be Jerry Aitken, both veteran Victoria competitors.

Six grand aggregate awards will be made at the close of the show with Victoria area, Chehalis, Nanaimo and Port Alberni riders in the running for each, having led the way in points at council shows held during the year.

In the senior, or open division, the top four riders in each of three aggregate sections are as follows:

Western games — Bonnie Richmond and Satu of Port Alberni; Merle Rimmer and Triggitt, Metchosin; Dunc Rimmer and Pancho, Metchosin, and Bill Scafe and Shane of Colwood.

Western performance — Barbara Coombs and King-Go-Boy, Victoria; Heather Rimmer and Mickey, Metchosin; Bonnie Richmond and Satu, Hawkins and Champagne, of Port Alberni; and Jim Barr and Flash of Victoria.

English — Barbara Coombs and King-Go-Boy; Bonnie Richmond and Satu; Alex Hawkins and Champagne, of Port Alberni; and Jim Barr and Flash of Victoria.

TOTAL POINTS

These are the leaders for total points in the junior sections:

Western games — Daryl Pallister and April Mist of Langford; Kathy Hodnett and Kitty of Victoria; Robert Pallister and Dolly of Langford; and Lana Tetrault and Sundance of Port Alberni.

Western performance — Daryl Pallister and Jet Traveler; Sally Holm and Taffy, of Port Alberni; Gloria Halk and Rattler of Nanaimo; Brian Batley and Domino, of Chehalis.

English — Elaine Tetrault and Sabre of Port Alberni; Daryl Pallister and April Mist; Kathy Hodnett and Kitty, and Sally Holm and Taffy.

BOY STARVED TO DEATH, SAILOR, WIFE CHARGED

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A sailor and his wife have been charged with murdering their three-year-old boy by starvation.

Warrants against Noel Lee Smith and his wife, Juanita Maria, both 33, were issued Tuesday by juvenile court Judge Damar Winegeart.

The charges resulted from the death Sunday of Ronald Lee Smith, three. The child weighed only 15 pounds.

The child's twin brother, Donald Lee Smith, was 16 months old and weighed only 15½ pounds when he died in hospital Nov. 16, 1962.

Two other children of the Smiths, Charles Lee, four, and Noel Edward, 21 months, were taken to a children's shelter. They were said to be in good physical condition.

Court Overrules Religious Grounds

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP)—An injured 16-year-old boy was turned over to the child welfare department Wednesday after his parents refused their consent to a hospital operation on religious grounds.

Magistrate Ernest Anderson, who convened his court in Chilliwack General Hospital, ordered Jackie Tolmie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tolmie, transferred to the department's care.

Department officials here and in Victoria refused comment, but Mr. Tolmie said:

"They felt he was not getting the required medical and surgical attention because of our religious beliefs."

ILLEGITIMACY INCREASE

CALGARY (CP)—Increasing illegitimacy among school girls is one of the reasons for appointing a dean of women at William Aberhart High School, J. W. James, assistant supervisor of the Calgary Public School Board, said Wednesday. The number of illegitimate births increased to 8.5 per cent of all city births in 1963 from 7.4 per cent in 1962. School girls between the ages of 13 and 19 formed the largest group of unwed mothers.

who convened his court in Chilliwack General Hospital, ordered Jackie Tolmie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tolmie, transferred to the department's care.

Department officials here and in Victoria refused comment, but Mr. Tolmie said:

"They felt he was not getting the required medical and surgical attention because of our religious beliefs."

FRACTURED VERTEBRAE

The boy suffered a fractured vertebrae Monday when a tractor rolled on him. He was later transferred to Vancouver General Hospital.

Mr. Tolmie, who said he and his wife are members of the Church of God, said his belief is that "once a doctor gets his hands on you they go to extremes and they continue to go ahead as they like."

LABOR COUNCIL NOTES

Innocence Costs More Than Guilt

A local truck driver paid $75 to prove himself innocent of careless driving when a guilty plea would have cost him only $40, a Victoria Labor Council meeting was told Wednesday night.

Charles Thompson, of the Civic Employees' Union, said the truck driver should be reimbursed—but he didn't say by whom.

The trucker was in an accident on Hillside Avenue with a cyclist, he told delegates.

When the police investigated, they interviewed neither the driver nor the swamper at the time, he said.

CHARGE DISMISSED

He pleaded not guilty, and was remanded a week—and then the charge against him was dismissed.

"If a man has to pay a $75 lawyer's fee to prove himself innocent, he'd be better off to plead guilty," said Mr. Thompson.

"That would have cost him only a $40 fine."

"We feel this is an injustice, and he should be reimbursed for his lawyer's fee."

The meeting accepted Mr. Thompson's report, but did nothing about the $75.

The same meeting heard the official union last word on the Alberta Meat Market strike, which ended Sept. 10.

Victoria Daily Times THURS., SEPT. 17, 1964 3

BATTERY of TV cameras and news photographers, along with large crowd, marked arrival of official party at Vancouver's International Airport on jet flight from Great Falls, Mont.

SIGNING Columbia River Treaty proclamation at Peach Arch ceremony, President Johnson is watched, from the left, by U.S. Secretary of

CARVED TOTEM was presented by Premier W. A. C. Bennett to U.S. President Lyndon B. Johnson as a memento of his visit Wednesday to sign the Columbia River treaty. It was carved by Victorian Henry Hunt, a son-in-law of the late Chief Mungo Martin. Mr. Johnson gave Mr. Bennett one of the treaty pens. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

ITU Seeks Mass Picket In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Striking Toronto printers today called for a mass trade union picket of the provincial legislature next Wednesday in a bid to get Premier Robarts to intervene in their dispute with the three Toronto daily newspapers.

All trade unions in the Toronto area are being urged to join the three-hour demonstration which will start at 7 a.m.

Printers' Homes Windows Broken

TORONTO (CP) — Windows in the homes of two employed printers were smashed overnight Wednesday while Local 91 of the International Typographical Union (ITU) picketed the home of a third printer.

All three printers' homes are in suburban Scarborough, and all three have returned to work at the Toronto Star, one of three dailies being picketed here by the ITU.

PTA Meet Teachers
Monterey PTA will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium when the school's teaching staff will be introduced and there will be a tour of the school.

ESCORT PLANE CRASHES

TEHRAN (AP)—An Iranian air force jet fighter escorting Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie's plane crashed today on a factory. One worker was killed, 12 were missing in the fire caused by the crash, and several others were injured.

The pilot parachuted to safety.

The plane was one of 10 air force jets on escort duty for the emperor's departure after a three-day state visit.

'Waistline Watchers' Waddle In; Waltz Out

The red carpet to physical fitness for Victorians was laid out Tuesday.

At 10 a.m., the Palm Springs Health Spa opened its brightly varnished mahogany doors for those who want to trim—or add—a few inches and a few pounds.

The spa, at 1315 Government, offers to "reduce, firm or build" your body.

"We're getting away from the old gym that was sweaty and dirty," said supervisor Charles Tartella, 33.

The spa opened its doors to 150 members—who paid $10 initiation fee and $8 a month for membership—for exercises only.

GRAND OPENING

Grand opening complete with sauna bath is set for next Monday.

Three instructors in black pants and white jackets attend to the men, while three instructresses, including Tartella's wife Margrit, 23, look after the ladies.

Surrounded by mirrors and piped music, members can work out on a variety of machines.

There are two "butterfly" machines—for building the bust; a hip "remover"—to get rid of excess fat, and a belt that vibrates at 1,500 revolutions a minute—to take away that double chin.

There are vibrator belts to firm up tissue, "grace lines" to roll away fat from waist to hips and ultra violet lamps for Vitamin D—and a good tan.

HOOR IN SUN

"One minute under the lamps is equivalent to an hour under the sun," said Tartella.

Most of the members are between 30 and 70, "a lot of retired people and businessmen who stay at the office with no exercise program."

About half the members are women, many of them wives "of the retired and businessmen."

The spa is open for men Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturdays 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sundays from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

For the ladies, it's Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

10-CLUB PLAN

The Victoria spa, worth $100,000, is part of a 10-club plan costing $2,000,000 in Canada.

There are five clubs in Vancouver, two under construction in Edmonton and two more in Calgary.

The tested creed of supervisors of the Indianapolis-based chain is that a person needs to spend only 40 minutes at a time about three times a week to get into good condition in an average period of three to four months.

Programs are planned and tailored to the individual's requirements and condition by the instructors. Weight and other measurements are taken weekly.

Inside the spa, one of the first signs seen says: "No smoking."

"We encourage members to stop smoking," said Tartella, "and sauna baths help to get the nicotine out of tissues."

Two Drowned

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two men, both former residents of Scotland, are missing and presumed drowned on a moose hunting expedition on Hudson Bay about 600 miles northeast of here, it was reported Monday. Robert Dawson Killen, 24, of Glasgow, and David Lees Foster, 20, of Broughty Ferry, Scotland, were last seen Labor Day adrift in a canoe on which a small outboard motor had failed.

Floods Rake Texas After Heavy Storms

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Torrential downpours of 11 inches sent flood waters swirling into several southwest Texas villages as violent thunderstorms raked numerous sections of the state late Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Eleven inches of rain at Asherton and Catarina, about 100 miles southwest of San Antonio, sent small creeks out of their banks, flooding homes and other buildings. There were no deaths or injuries reported.

Heavy hail pounded the upper Panhandle when a thunderstorm packing 40-mile-an-hour winds hit that area during the night. Thunderstorm activity continued over most of the state today, with heavy rains reported in the north Texas area.

Battle of Britain Commemorated At Sunday Service

A service of remembrance and thanksgiving will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. at Christ Church Cathedral to commemorate Battle of Britain Sunday.

The 40-minute service is sponsored by the Air Force Officers' Association of Vancouver Island.

Also participating will be air cadet squadrons from Victoria, Duncan and Sidney and the general public.

"Canada was represented in the Battle of Britain by a number of young men who joined the Royal Air Force and by the first of many RCAF squadrons which left Canada during the war for services overseas," said F. T. S. Sehl, an official of the air force officers' association. The service will be conducted by Dean Brian Whitlow.

India Aids Viet Nam

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India has promised South Viet Nam co-operation and assistance in "the economic, social and humanitarian fields" in its fight against the Communists, External Affairs Minister Swaran Singh told Parliament Tuesday. He said South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Khanh sought aid in a letter to Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri.

Retailers Wrestle With Christmas Decoration Plan

The retail merchants group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce turned down one Christmas decoration scheme Tuesday and will discuss others next Tuesday.

A sample of the scheme turned down at Douglas and Yates shows a gold-colored bell with two colored tinsel wreaths on either side hanging from a cluster light.

"It was felt that such a decoration was not in keeping with the character and tradition of Victoria," said Hugh Francis, chairman.

The scheme also was expensive. He said it would cost $5,000 to string the decoration along Douglas from Bay to Broughton.

Last Christmas the merchants placed Christmas trees throughout the downtown area and are trying for something different this year.

Fishing hadn't been too hot in the reach between Kihushan Point and the Iron River breakwater, but the pleasant American couple camped next door managed to hang at least one coho each time they took a boat out.

After three unrewarding days during which the salmon ignored everything we could trail through their feeding ground, I decided that if we were to give the smoke-house any trade, we'd better ask Jim and Gail Rankin for their recipe.

"We've been mooching," Jim told us, half-apologetically. "We run up past the point where we'll be clear of the other boats, and mooch with minnows or plugged herring."

We were pretty vague about this drift-fishing technique, although we knew it was used effectively at Cowichan Bay and a few other spots where salmon congregate.

But except to bounce a herring rig off the bottom a casual time or two, we'd never investigated a form of angling that seemed dull and slightly disreputable, to be indulged in furtively, if at all.

The rig was simple: a keel-shaped sinker weighing two ounces, fitted with a chain swivel at each end; a five-foot leader of light monofilament; and two shiny steelhead hooks. The bottom hook was secured to the end of the leader, the top one fixed so it could be slid on the nylon to accommodate baits of any size.

In the shallow little bay north of Kihushan's tide-crinkled shoals, I killed the motor and set out to "plug" a six-inch herring from a package of frozen coho-chow.

Beheaded on a 90-degree slant toward the tail and with its internal machinery consigned to a handy seagull, the herring was a bait to be admired.

I hooked it up as Jim Rankin had showed me... first the lower hook, then the top one pulled through the cut and snaked into the skin so that points and barbs emerged... and tossed the rig overboard.

The sinker thumped bottom in about 30 feet of water. It went bumpily-bump over the sand and through the eelgrass, towed by a boat drifting in a two-knot tide.

Something pulled. I winched a pop-eyed and highly surprised rockfish to the surface, freed the hooks from his silly face and released him with a warning. Then I plugged another herring and dispatched it to the bottom.

Nothing bothered it... not even a dogfish. Occasionally, following instructions, I gave the rod an upward sweep. Off the sunken barge, something fetched the bait a powder-puff tap. I yanked back, but my visitant had gone.

The sun edged out from a cloudbank. I recovered a magazine from the bows and leafed through it, munching on pilot bread. When I happened to think of it, I raised and lowered the mooching gear.

From the corner of my eye, I saw the tip of the untended rod slip sharply. The reel stammered out a yard of line, then was silent. Doesn't much fancy.

Cod? Maybe, but that gambit hinted of bigger game. I stuck the magazine under a seat, reeled in a mangled bait, and sent down a fresh one.

On the second gentle lift, something ticked it. I waited, and the line began to grope with leasured deliberation against the tide. There was a sharp pluck, much like the nip a stream trout takes at a fly he doesn't much fancy.

I tweaked back... felt weight and authoritative resistance... then a husky coho was sizzling off on a run that ended in a spectacular display of tail-dancing 200 feet away.

I boated him after a brisk session, hooked and lost a heavier salmon that could have been a spring, then putted back to camp, fatuously pleased with myself.

Mooching doesn't fit well where boats must plod in traffic lanes. But try this lazy man's fishing some time where the elbow room is ample. Disreputable or not, you may find it a pleasant relief from conventional salmon trolling.

False Front For Tourists Condemned

The battle for tourist business is robbing many European cities of their true character, says Rev. J. L. W. McLean, DD, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Back in Victoria after an extensive tour of Europe, Dr. McLean says many cities are putting up a tourist "front" that is often insincere.

"This is also true of many of our Canadian cities," he said. "Tourism is growing everywhere and, in the quest for the tourist dollar, we are in danger of obscuring our true identity."

'BALLY-HOO'
For that reason, Dr. and Mrs. McLean did not visit Shakespeare's birthplace at Stratford-on-Avon. They were advised that every conceivable type of "bally-hoo" was being used to capitalize on the bard's 400th birthday.

"Similar conditions prevail in many cities of Europe," Dr. McLean said. "It is understandable from the business viewpoint but regrettable in other ways."

Dr. McLean was chiefly occupied with church work in Europe. He attended meetings of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland in Edinburgh; the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Belfast, Ireland, and meetings of the World Presbyterian Alliance in Frankfurt, Germany.

UNITY IN FOREFRONT

"At all these meetings the desire for Christian unity was in the foreground, but there is no illusion anywhere that denominational barriers can be easily got rid of."

"The move towards Christian unity is more in the nature of free discussion and increased mutual respect between church leaders. And there are more inter-church meetings today than ever before."

No Accident No Excuse

John F. Melody, 650 Earlson, was sentenced today in city police court to 20 days for impaired driving.

It was his second conviction. His lawyer asked Magistrate William Ostler to consider in mitigation the fact that Melody was involved in no accident.

He suggested that Melody's driving was not erratic, and that his having drunk alcohol had not made him a bad driver even though a breathalyzer test indicated he was impaired.

"In an emergency, the ability to act would not be there," said the magistrate.

1962 Accident Took Two Lives

Eight people sought heavy damages in B.C. Supreme Court here today because of an accident near Goldstream Park two years ago in which two Victoria longshoremen were killed.

Killed instantly were Gunnar Isomaa, 44, of 3942 Braefoot, and George Weaver, 37, of 1222 Goldstream. They were driving north in Isomaa's car when it crashed head-on into a car occupied by two families from Seattle at about 6:30 p.m. on Dec. 30, 1962.

Both families claim extensive but unspecified damages because of severe injuries. Defendant in the action is Mrs. Aune M. Isomaa, widow of Gunnar Isomaa, who is named as administratrix of his estate.

Third party in the case is the Zurich Insurance Co.

'HIGH SPEED'

Victoria lawyer Patrick J. Sinnott said Gunnar Isomaa was driving his car at "a great rate of speed" in a dangerous and unlawful manner.

He said the car "veered into the path" of an oncoming car driven by Lt.-Cmdr. Warrior and caused a head-on collision.

Lt.-Cmdr. Warrior's car was completely demolished, counsel said, and he claimed $3,100 for the loss of it.

He also asked general damages for pain and suffering resulting from chest and leg injuries, concussion and nervous debility and special damages for hospitalization, medical treatment and damage to clothing, spectacles and traveling expenses between Seattle and Victoria.

Mrs. Wanda Lea Warrior asked general damages for grievous bodily injuries, including a broken jaw, spinal and facial injuries, concussion, neurasthenic debility and permanent injuries; and special damages for hospitalization, medical treatment and travelling expenses.

Their daughter Kimberlee: damages resulting from a broken nose, shoulder and multiple injuries, concussion, and permanent nervous and physical disability; and special damages for hospitalization and medical treatment.

EYE INJURIES

Kevin Warrior: general damages from eye injuries and facial cuts necessitating plastic surgery; double vision, concussion, nervous shock and after-effects; special damages for hospitalization and medical treatment, loss of spectacles and continuing expenses.

Kristan Warrior: general damages for concussion, injuries to forehead, nervous after-effects and permanent debility resulting from concussion and shock; special damages for hospitalization and medical treatment.

Earl Kenyon of Seattle claimed general damages for a broken jaw, scrambled teeth, facial and head injuries, concussion, multiple injuries and permanent disability; and special damages continuing.

His wife, Angela: general damages for loss of her left eye, severe concussion, injuries to left leg and nervous disability; special damages still continuing.

Their daughter, Laura: general damages for concussion, bruises, abrasion and nervous shock and special damages continuing.

Times photographer Bill Halkett identified photos which he took after the accident occurred and these were entered as exhibits in the case.

The hearing continued this afternoon.

MOST RAIN IN 46 DAYS SOAKS CITY

Victorians Wednesday and early today experienced the heaviest rainfall in 46 days as .33 inches fell on the city during a 24-hour period. This brought the three-day total to .54 inches.

UNDERGOING final sea trials today in Vancouver waters is Pacific Venture, soon to become newest addition to west coast fishing fleet. The large seiner will be delivered to Prince Rupert Co-op over weekend. She was formerly a USN mine-sweeper and later became a towboat. Conversion to fishboat was completed recently by McKay-Cormac Ltd. of Victoria. Chief rigging feature is quadrapod mast on after-deck for easy handling of nets and equipment. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

'I'VE GOT MY RULES'

Protest Gets No Action

Three cups of coffee have sustained stonemason Gert Larsen since his last food—a bowl of cornflakes—Tuesday morning.

In his campaign for consideration by Workmen's Compensation Board he has squatted on the steps of the Legislature since Tuesday afternoon, shunning offers of food, accommodation or even blankets in which to wrap himself during the shivering nights.

Today he hopes to see Attorney-General Robert Bonner, if Mr. Bonner gets back to Victoria in time after attending meetings on the mainland.

IN THE MARKET for an over-size trophy case is Scottish dancer Angus McKenzie, 18, of 1912 Allenby Street, who has another half dozen at home after cleaning up on western regional highland games circuit this summer. Angus' last win was Western U.S. open highland dancing championship in San Francisco on Labor Day. He also holds western North American and Pacific International open titles. Gigantic trophy he is holding came from Penticton Highland Games. Angus, a Grade 12 student at Oak Bay high school, hopes to compete in Edinburgh festival and Cowal and Braemar gatherings in Scotland next summer. He is a student of Adeline Duncan Studio.

Dippy Weather But 20% More Dunk In Lakes

Even city parks officials find it hard to believe but there were about 20 per cent more swimmers counted at lake beaches this past summer than the year before.

Last year, when the weather was considerably better for swimming, there were 163,000 swimmers counted at the four beaches.

Counts at the various beaches, with 1963 comparisons in brackets, were: Hamsterley 74,600 (53,325); Beaver Lake 64,600 (50,470); Eagle Park 27,650 (30,990); and Thetis Lake 40,200 (27,625).

their trek to the Lower Mainland last year). That helps me keep warm.

"But I'm getting the feeling that the more I stay here the less good I'm doing my own case. Maybe I'll help some others."

He saw labor department counsel Leo A. Stadnyk Wednesday and Mr. Stadnyk was among those who offered food and a place to stay, finally bringing blankets, which remained unused.

He is grateful for the offers, but feels people can do more good by writing or wiring Mr. Bonner.

Since a spinal operation in 1959 he has worked only intermittently, but meanwhile he, his wife and children have lived mostly on savings, refusing to be helped by Unemployment Insurance or welfare benefits.

"There are so many others in the same position, but they don't go to extremes," he said. "I don't like it a bit, but I have to show I'm sincere."

WHY SUFFER?
Why has he refused offers of help from people in many areas of the Victoria community?

Why, at least, doesn't he eat?

"I've got my rules. If I break one I might as well go home," Larsen explained. He won't go home until he gets a "definite" answer to his problem.

The Salvation Army and others offered to take him in, to give him food, a chair to sit in. All are gently refused.

"I think of the Doukhobors sleeping in their cold tents and the way they suffered (on

PUC May Not Hear Municipal Arguments

Emergency Caucus Set In Bus Fare Protest

Acting Mayor M. H. Mooney and city solicitor T. P. O'Grady flew to Vancouver today for an emergency caucus in the bus fare fight.

They were airborne soon after hearing that their side of the case against fare increases may not be heard.

Dr. H. F. Angus, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission which adjourned hearings in Vancouver Wednesday on the B.C. Hydro application for a 25-cent cash fare, issued the warning. It came after he was told that the municipalities may need until mid-November to present their case.

"There is a question as to whether the commission should act on insufficient information if sufficient information takes too long to get," he said.

WAIT UNTIL MONDAY

Dr. Angus said he would reserve action until Monday when the hearings resume in Victoria.

D. M. Goldie, representing 10 Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver municipalities opposed to the fare increase, said he would know better by Monday exactly how long will be needed by the municipalities.

He conducted an exhaustive cross-examination of B.C. Hydro officials for three days in the Vancouver hearings seeking technical details which will be analyzed by a Philadelphia firm of transit experts retained by the municipalities.

Dr. Angus' warning that he may not wait for the municipal counter-brief undoubtedly was the reason for the sudden meeting called by Vancouver Mayor William Rathle.

Ald. Mooney attended the caucus as a substitute for Mayor R. B. Wilson, co-chairman of the joint civic committee, who is in eastern Canada.

Result of the deliberations were not expected to be known until the bus fare hearings reopen in the Law Courts building here Monday morning.

SCHOOLS COUNTING RIDERS

Detailed information on use of transit buses by school pupils will be presented in a Greater Victoria school board brief to the Public Utilities Commission Monday.

A questionnaire seeking transit information is in the hands of school principals and has started to come back to district officials.

Trustee Peter Bunn said today that estimated bus use figures have so far been borne out by answers to the questionnaire.

The board asked such questions as how many pupils use transit buses; how many ride at their own expense; how many use buses in connection with extra-curricular activities.

PATTERN SEEN

It has been found, he said, there is a pattern of use discernible at the junior and senior secondary school level.

At this level the school pupils tend to take part in activities held away from their own school, at sports meets, public library, arenas and auditoriums.

The submission is being made to oppose a proposed bus fare hike to 25 cents, representing nearly 50 per cent on the adult rate.

TOPICS of the DAY

Fewer Victorians will have a vote in December's civic elections than last year unless they remember to register or confirm their franchise, returning officer Frank Hunter warned today.

"The response to both new registrations and confirmations is very meagre and there is less than two weeks left," he said.

The voters list closes at 5 p.m. Sept. 30 and anyone whose name is not in it by then will not have a ballot in December.

Time for watching the stars will be 8 to 10 p.m. Saturday nights until the end of November, says the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain.

Time during the summer has been 9 to 11 p.m. Observing will be discontinued from the end of November to the first Saturday in April because of weather.

'TERRIBLE WEAPON'
NOT BOMB—NIKITA

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev said today his "terrible weapon" is not a nuclear bomb. He said the weapon "shows what mankind can do," but denied that he claimed it had unlimited power.

"It cannot be a nuclear bomb because I saw it near Moscow," Khrushchev told reporters at an Indian embassy reception. "And a nuclear bomb would require testing and we are not testing now."

Khrushchev said foreign press reports of his original comments on the weapon, made last Tuesday to a Japanese parliamentary delegation, had been misinterpreted.

"I am not saying anybody did it deliberately but you understand the circumstances . . . I can see how it happened, in translation."

IN INNER HARBOR

Man Drowned
As Boat Sinks

An unidentified Victoria fisherman, about 55, drowned when his 16-foot troller swamped in the Inner Harbor and sank shortly after 1:30 p.m. today.

An R.C.N. diver directed by tugboatmen and city police recovered the body and efforts to raise the boat were being made at press time.

According to witnesses, the troll-rigged vessel was caught by a fresh southwesterly wind in the channel between British America Paint Co. docks and Shell Oil wharf.

TRAPPED IN CABIN

It took on water as the skipper tried to recover way, trapping him in the cabin before he could escape through a window. The fisherman apparently was jammed in the window opening as the boat went down.

"It sank like a rock," a watcher on shore remarked. He said it appeared to be top-heavy, a type of vessel not designed for commercial trolling.

An Island Tug harbor craft chanced on the scene immediately after the sinking and stood by after dropping a life ring to mark the spot.

Island Tugs Rustler and Comet, the federal fisheries patrol vessel Atlin Post and several other private tugs and small craft gathered at the scene to lend assistance.

Student Loan 'Shortage' To Be Probed

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Gordon today promised to look into complaints that not enough student loans are available for students seeking them.

Jack Bigg (PC—Alberta) said in the Commons he understood there was not enough money in the fund to provide loans for all needy students.

Mr. Gordon said it was inconceivable that, with an initial fund of $40,000,000, students seeking loans couldn't get them. He would look into the matter.

Homemade Stove Blast Injures Man

TORONTO (CP)—An unemployed carpenter was critically burned and thrown through a glass door when the homemade naphtha stove he was using to make taffy apples exploded.

Ederhard Frick, 41-year-old father of six, turned to candy-making when he was unable to find a carpentry job. He had planned to sell the candy around Ontario's fairs.

Ex-Policeman Kills Doll Pedlar

NEW YORK (AP)—A street pedlar of "dancing" paper dolls was shot to death on Broadway near Times Square Wednesday night, and the gunfire threw the theatre and dinner-hour crowd of thousands into turmoil. The pedlar, Clarence Ritchie, 40, Negro, allegedly was slain by retired police sergeant Peter Droner, 57, in an argument over the dolls, which Droner called a "swindle."

Stolen Arms Cache Found In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A five-man Quebec provincial police raiding party today recovered a cache of weapons, ammunition and detonator caps stolen last January from the Fusiliers de Mont Royal Army.

The raiding party swooped down on a downtown Sherbrooke Street tourist home shortly after noon and surrounded the two-storey brownstone building.

Nuclear Weapons
Made U.K. Issue

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Alec Douglas-Home today said any British decision to give up control over its nuclear weapon would be "irrevocable" and that Britain's place in world councils would then be taken over by France and China.

The prime minister was speaking at a press conference on his Conservative party's general election platform, which emphasizes that Britain must in the last resort have independently controlled nuclear power to deter an aggressor.

Douglas-Home said Harold Wilson's opposition Labor party had declared it would surrender control over Britain's nuclear arm.

ARMS MEET ADJOURNS
IN FAILURE

GENEVA (AP)—The 17-nation disarmament conference went into a five-month recess today after failing to achieve any progress this year.

This year's negotiations began last January in a general atmosphere of optimism which gave way to one of disappointment and gloom as East and West remained deadlocked on every issue, even on questions of conference procedure.

"We want the electorate to understand that if this is done . . . the decision will be irrevocable . . . and with France and China acquiring a nuclear weapon they will take our place in the highest international councils in the world," Douglas-Home said.

CAN ACT FREELY

The prime minister said Britain now has complete freedom of action and has been able to bring its influence to bear, sometimes decisively, in international affairs. Any proposal for unilateral disarmament could only weaken Britain's position, he said.

Political sources said this indicated the determination of the government party to keep Britain's independent nuclear deterrent up front as an election issue in the Oct. 15 general election.

"The only effective defence is the certainty in the mind of any enemy that there is no prize he could ever win by our defeat which could compensate him for the destruction he would suffer in the process," the platform said.

WAR SAFEGUARD

Madman,
Error
Ruled Out

SEATTLE (AP)—President Johnson, arguing for continued White House control of nuclear weapons, says the United States has taken "every step man can devise to ensure that neither a madman nor a malfunction could trigger nuclear war."

This was Johnson's principal message here Wednesday at a dinner sponsored by three colleges and the Seattle Chamber of Commerce.

Johnson said control over nuclear weapons "must be centralized in the hands of the highest and most responsible officer of government—the president of the United States."

Johnson's rival for the presidency in the Nov. 3 election, Barry Goldwater, has contended that some way must be found to turn over control of battle-field nuclear weapons to the multi-nation command of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. NATO's present nuclear stockpile is under American authority.

Johnson chose to overshadow a meeting earlier Wednesday with Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson with his H-bomb speech. But today, in a statement prepared for a breakfast audience in Portland, he returned to the more pastoral subjects of water power and conservation.

ISSUES STATEMENT

Before leaving Seattle, Johnson issued a statement containing the heart of his Portland speech. In it the president said:

1. New co-operative efforts among private and public power groups in the Pacific Northwest are welcomed. He predicted these would lead to a system "which one day will stretch from the Yukon to the Rio Grande—from the Columbia to the Potomac—lighting the homes and running the factories of an entire nation."

2. "A new conservation" is needed to meet the changing forces of a growing population, technological advances and urbanization.

In telling his Seattle audience about the horrors of nuclear war—200,000,000 casualties in the first exchange, he estimated—Johnson used these arguments to bolster his contention that the nuclear trigger should be left solely in the hands of the president:

"He alone has been chosen by all the people to lead all the

PEARSON SAYS:

'Canadians Sick'

By FRANK RUTTER
VANCOUVER — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson said today Canadians are sick.

"We are suffering from a kind of national schizophrenia," he said in a speech to 1,400 guests of the Canadian Club.

His plea was for national unity and recovery of Canada's world image.

Mr. Pearson proposed two cures: closer federal-provincial co-operation; reform of parliament.

"As a people, we appear uncertain about where we are going, how we are going and whether we are going separately or together."

CAPTIVATED NOTABLES, PUBLIC

It Was Johnson's Day
At Historic Ceremony

By FRANK RUTTER

Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER — U.S.

President Lyndon B. Johnson

beat the Beatles at their own game Wednesday.

His screamers came out in the rain by the thousand.

They gathered at the Peace

at Blaine on the U.S. border to see the president, Prime Minister

Lester B. Pearson and

Premier W. A. C. Bennett sign the Columbia River project into action—and history.

It was LBJ-day all the way from Sea-Island RCAF base to the border.

The president's reception matched the Beatle-crush Vancouver experienced a few weeks ago.

A huge crowd at the border chanted "we want Johnson" and teen-agers screamed just as lustily as they had for Britain's mop-top musicians.

And the president didn't disappoint them, breaking through the bonds of protocol and security to go into the crowd of 15,000 on an unscheduled hand-shake spree.

"Don't go," they cried.

PROCLAIMED TREATY

Minutes earlier he signed an executive order implementing the Columbia River Treaty

while Mr. Pearson and Mr.

Bennett signed a B.C.-Canada

"accord" to formally launch

the giant hydro and flood control project.

"I proclaim this treaty," the

"From this day forth let it be observed in good faith by the government and people of the U.S.A."

Everything went swim-mingly—almost too much so.

It rained almost all the time the president spent on his first visit to B.C. and Canada.

He got the worst of it, too,

both at the airport and the Peace Arch.

But while Prime Minister

Pearson gave up on his sudden speech, Mr. Johnson, sheltering beneath his famous—

though somewhat battered

paragraphs from his text and ad libbed to make up for it.

The day was full of declarations of unity and friendship

ized at the end of the Peace

president and prime minister walked off each with an arm about the other.

Mr. Bennett, who couldn't resist a couple of plugs for his

B.C. government, was still obviously captivated by the

Wins 2nd Race
By 15-Min. Edge

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Constellation, the United States' white-hulled defender of the America's Cup, made a farce of the second race for the ancient trophy today and defeated Sovereign, the British challenger, by an unofficial 15 minutes in strong winds and choppy seas.

The Americans won the first race Tuesday in this best-of-seven series by 5 minutes, 34 seconds.

Today's was the widest margin of victory since the switch to 12-metre yachts in 1958.

Sovereign actually got across the starting line first, but from then on the race belonged entirely to the American yacht.

By the time the two yachts beat their way to the first marker, Constellation had pulled ahead by 3 minutes, 43 seconds.

The margin was cut 21 seconds in the next two legs but by the end of the fourth the distance between the two was a mile.

The time there was announced, officially, as 5 minutes, 21 seconds but unofficial timers on two different press boats caught it as 6:21.

It was on this leg of the Olympic style course that Sovereign broke the bottom batten pocket of her mainsail. The mishap might have had an influence on the outcome in a close race, but not today.

This was the kind of weather that the British crew had sought—a dull day with a 21-knot breeze out of the south-southwest.

Despite the second straight defeat, critics said that Sovereign's hull speed and crew-manship was on a par with that of the American boat. They said the British sails were inferior to the American, however.

At Sovereign's request, the third race was postponed until Saturday.

Gladys Takes Aim
At U.S. Mainland

MIAMI (UPI)—Gladys matured into a big hurricane today with 125-mile-an-hour winds pointed at the mainland. It also increased its forward speed slightly.

At noon EDT the weather bureau centered the season's seventh tropical storm and its fourth hurricane about 975 miles slightly south of due east from Miami.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons flag committee met for the first time today over coffee cups in gold-trimmed room 16 and set to work erecting a wall of secrecy around their deliberations.

After a 30-minute public session at which Liberal MP Herman M. Batten, 55-year-old high school principal, was unanimously elected chairman, the committee went behind closed doors to consider how members will tackle the problem of finding a distinctive flag design acceptable to the Commons.

The public sessions included talk of keeping secret minutes, how to keep copies of them from getting into reporters' hands and whether committee decisions should record names of individual MPs as voting for or against a particular proposition.

Most of these questions were left for decision at later, in-camera sessions.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—President Johnson disclosed today that the United States now has two new weapons systems able to intercept and destroy bomb-carrying satellites orbiting the earth.

At the same time, the President revealed development of new radar able to "see" over the horizon and thus provide warning of any hostile missiles attack "within seconds after they are launched."

Minister Upset
In Recount

SASKATOON (CP)—Former CCF attorney-general R. A. Walker has upset Industry Minister Herb Pinder in a judicial recount of votes cast in last April's general election in Hanley constituency, Judge E. N. Hughes announced today.

The recount gave Mr. Walker 3,940 votes and Mr. Pinder 3,938 votes, a difference of two.

The election night count April 22 gave Liberal candidate Pinder a six-vote margin over Mr. Walker but the lead was stretched to 30 votes in the official count.

Mr. Walker, who launched the judicial recount, will be declared elected if no appeal is launched within 48 hours.

A lawyer for Mr. Pinder said he had no instructions on a possible appeal.

The Liberals won 33 seats, CCF 25 and Conservatives one in the official count for the 59-seat legislature.

The Commons chamber, there was joking reference to the fact only 13 of the 15 members were on hand.

Absentees John R. Matheson (L—Leeds) and David Pugh (PC—Okanagan-Boundary) were in British Columbia with Prime Minister Pearson for official ceremonies connected with the Columbia River development project.

The committee fixed a quorum of 10 members, two more than required by the rules, and decided for the time being to dispense with a steering sub-committee to plan the work.

Members also agreed unanimously to request Commons permission to sit while the House is in session.

The question of periodic reports to the press on committee progress produced division of opinion and the subject was shelved until a later session.

Theodore Riard (PC—St. Hyacinthe-Bagot) was elected unanimously committee vice-chairman.
